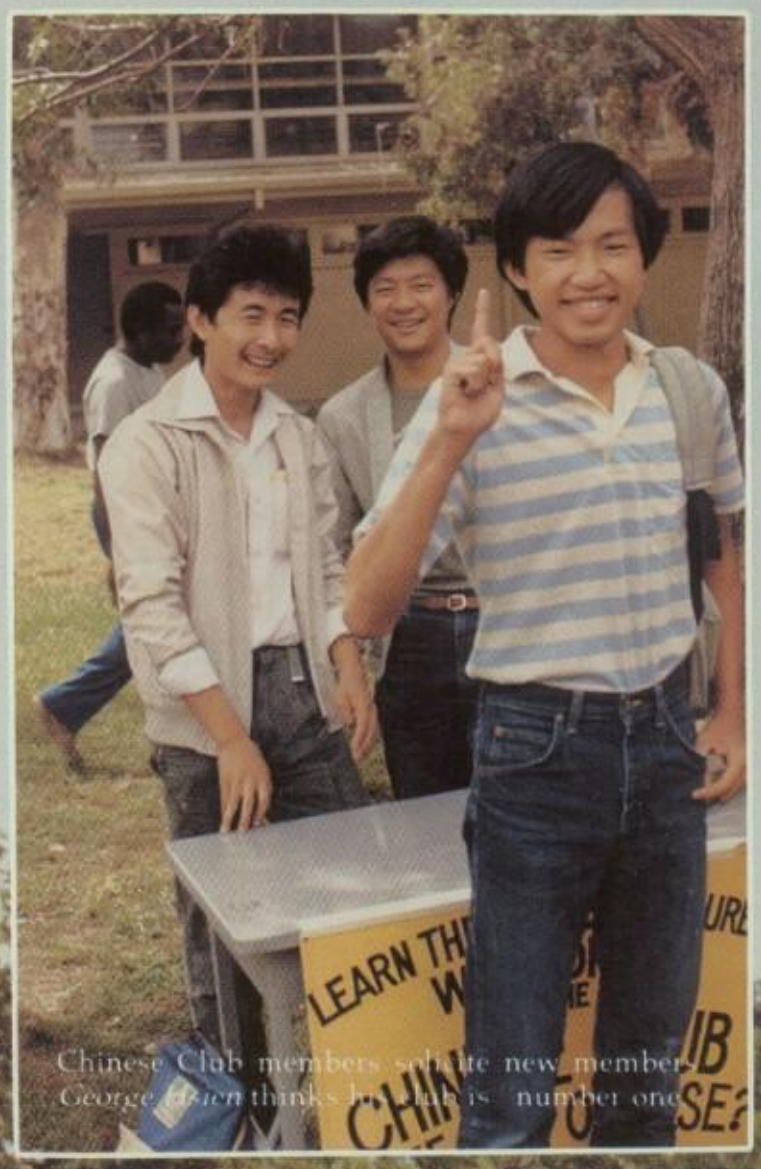
Old time friends Greg Goebel and Barry Crawford take time at snack to "horse around" and have a good time.

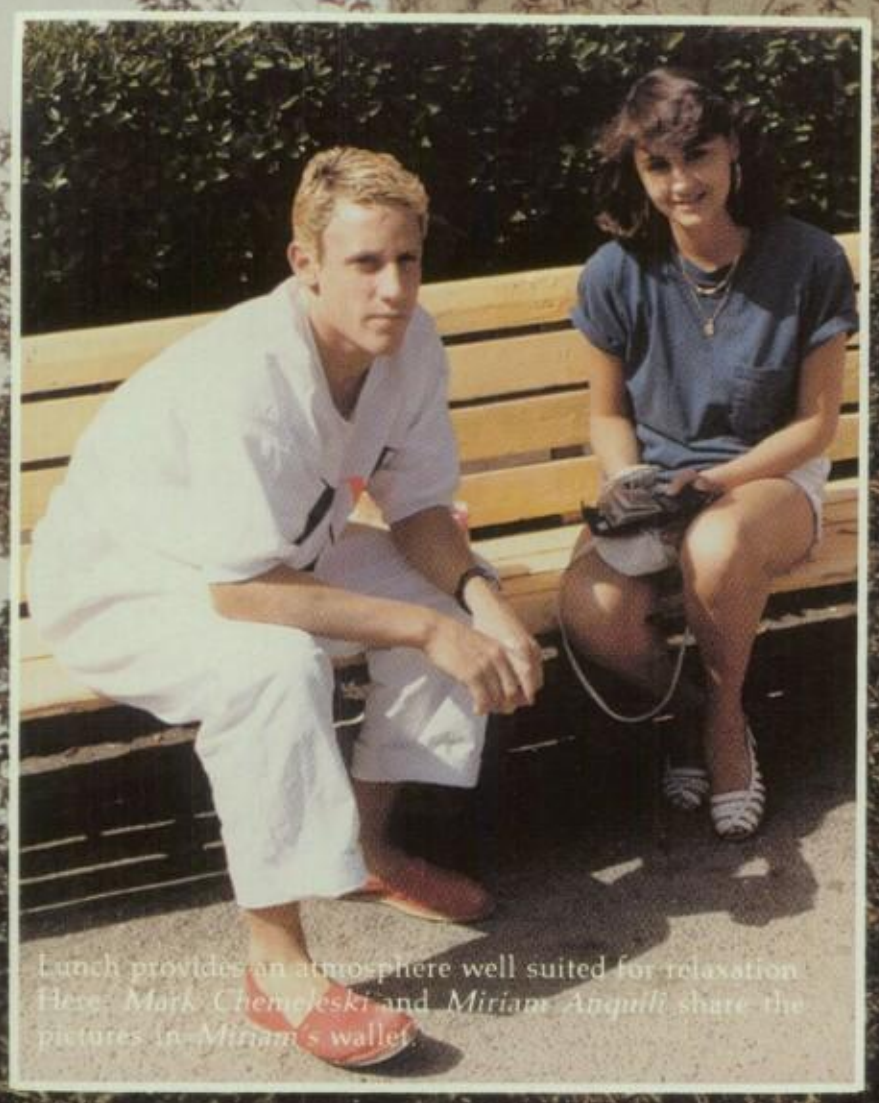


Chinese Club members solicite new members. George Adrien thinks h[illegible] is number one.

Made-up for a disaster drill Morgan Lamar displays his phony wound. Last spring's Medical Science class helped the Arcadia Fire Department practice for an emergency.

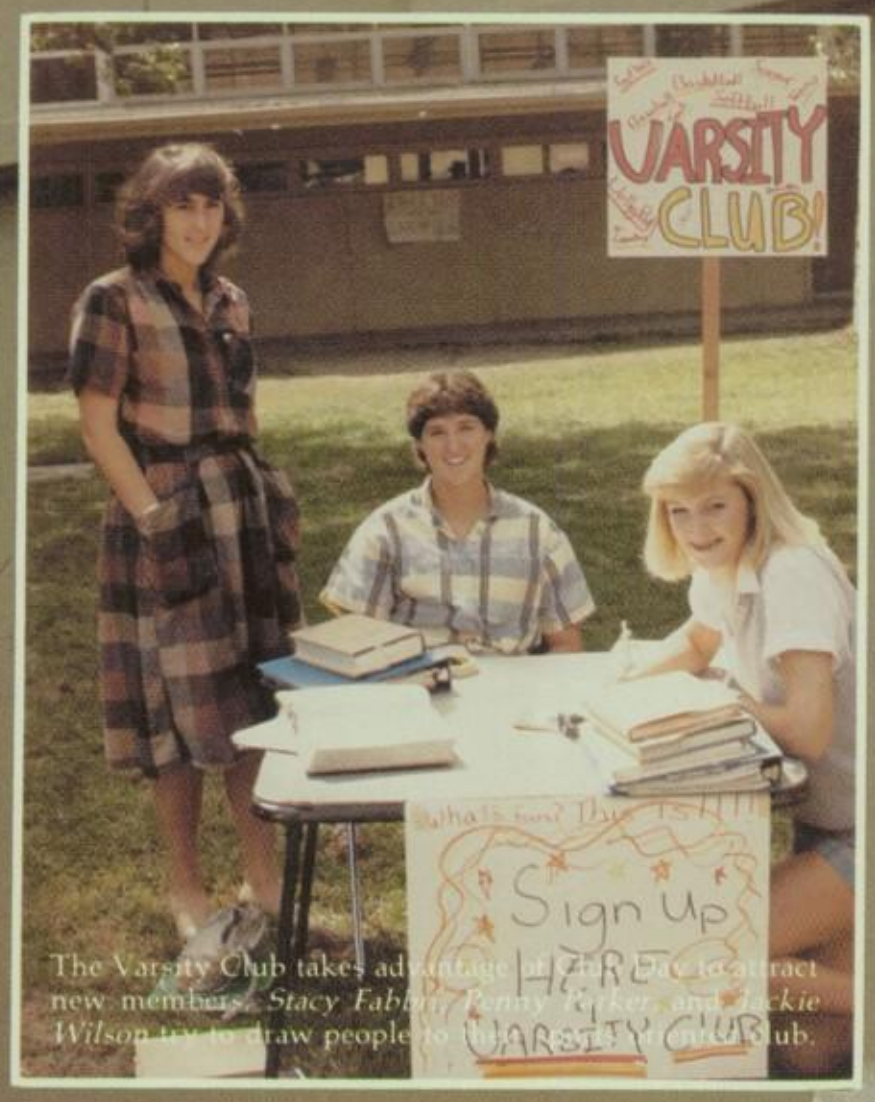
Making The Look

As those hot summer days came to an end and fall quickly approached, students prepared themselves to return to the Arcadia High Campus. As one entered the Apache parking lot on September 6 one could see that changes had occured over the summer. Parking bumpers were alternately painted red and gold by Executive Council and Pep Squad which gave the lot a brand new look. New shrubs and flowers had been planted near the main office and the display cases were brightly decorated. Old and new faces also made the look of the Arcadia High. Students, teachers, administrators and other faculty employees created a certain atmosphere and feeling. Whether in the classroom, the crowded halls, or the busy rally court, it was the interesting and diverse people that gave Arcadia is its unique, "one and only", look.



Lunch provides an atmosphere well suited for relaxation. Here, Mark Chemeleski and Miriam Anquili share the pictures in Miriam's wallet.

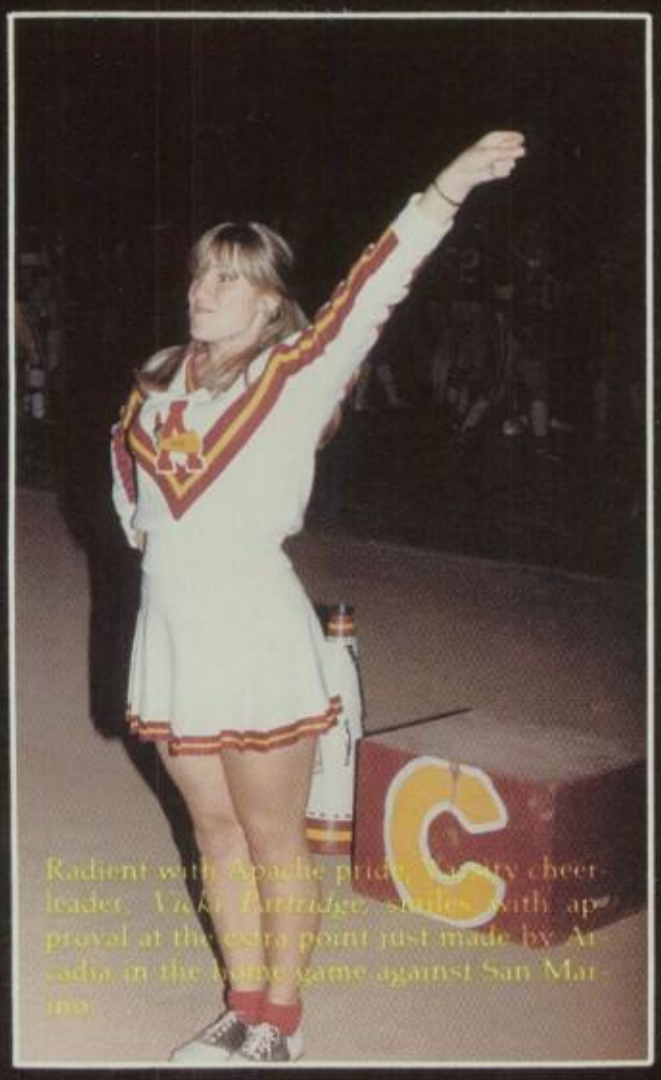
Snack, on Club Day, is a great opportunity to get involved. Scott Saxon encourages prospective members to join a club.



The Varsity Club takes advantage [illegible] to attract new members. Stacy Fabbri, Penny [illegible] and Jackie Wilson try to draw people to [illegible] Club.

Making It Happen

The various clubs and organizations at A.H.S. provided opportunities for involvement and prompted students to "make things happen." Pep rallies, assemblies, and dances all added spirit and enthusiasm to the student body and were a different change of pace. Weekends also provided Apaches with two days in which to create some fun and excitement. The classroom was another place where activities originated. It was here that friendships were made, weekend plans developed, and minds worked together to make life more than just routine. No matter in or out of school, however, we at Arcadia High really knew how to "make things happen."



Radient with Apache pride, varsity cheerleader Vicki Partridge smiles with approval at the extra point just made by Arcadia in the home game against San Marino.

Underclassmen congregate at the home game against San Marino to socialize with friends and to make plans for the rest of the weekend.

After performing during halftime, the Tall Flag and Drill Team members create an enthusiastic atmosphere and give their all to promote Apache spirit.

While returning from the goal post after an Arcadian touchdown, Varsity dance members Kristen Lokker and Theresa Samuelson give a wave of enthusiasm for the points just scored.

Making It Come Alive

Friday nights meant the coming together of the entire student body, faculty, and Arcadia Community. As the bleachers bagan to fill, excitement spread through out Apache supporters and excitement filled the air. It was nights such as these that apache pride came alive. In addition to our hard working and determined football team, other groups contributed to these anticipated nights. Cheerleaders, pep band, and the entire marching band all played an important part in making these games successful. Kiowas, Senior Men, and parents also volunteered their time to sell programs and run snack stands. Under these bright lights, we congregated to cheer on all the Apaches and show our spirit and enthusiasm. People working together, as well as the thrill of victory, was what made the Apaches really come alive.

ALWAYS BE TOGETHER

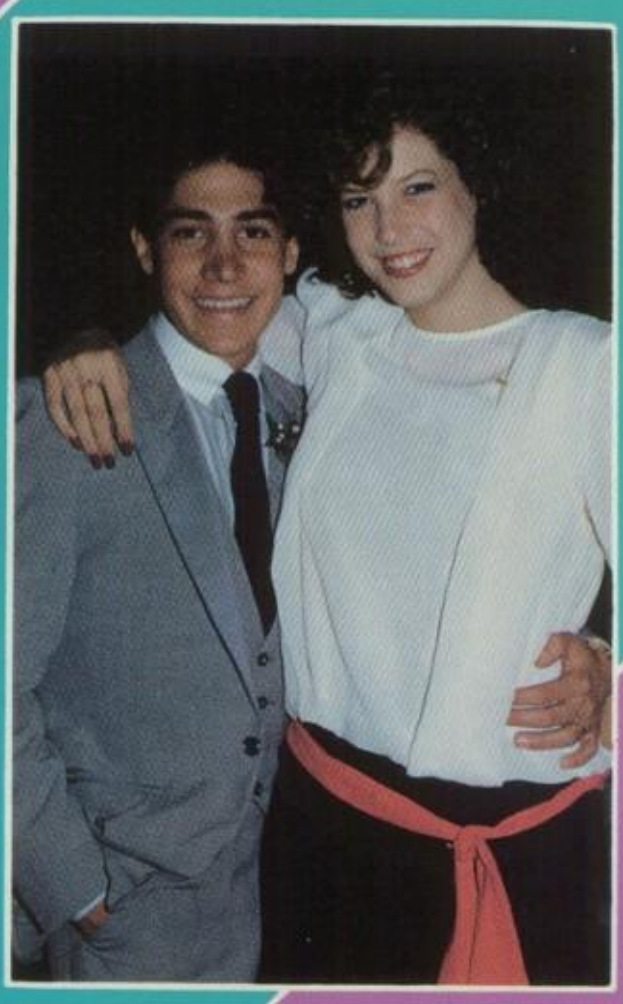
Homecoming weekend was full of non-stop activities and fun for students as well as alumni. The theme was "Always Be Together" from the movie Grease, and, therefore, Friday was a dress-up fifties day. The homecoming festivities began at the assembly which was emceed by Activities Commissioner Andrea Martinet. Performances were made by old and new pep squads, Orchesis, the marching band, Chanteurs, and Julie Shatafian and Julie Elmore, who sang a duet to a fifties theme song. Another special addition was a dance to "True Love" by alumni Clint Gamble, Alex Pilmer, Jason Call, Greg Tatebe, Bill Harmon, and Paul Durban. To close the assembly Apache Joe, Chris Ballmer, predicted Arcadia 21, Glendale 7. Our varsity team, however, happily proved him wrong. The Apaches beat Glendale a whooping 36 to 7.

Halftime activities began with a parade of convertible bugs carrying court members and Grand Marshalls Dr. Richard Cordano and Mr. Elbert Souders. Next, out of the sky, jumped a parachute man who landed on a red "X" in the center of the field. He proceeded to take off his flight suit, and, in a black tuxedo, presented roses and a boutonniere to the chosen King and Queen.

The first annual semi-formal Homecoming Dance was held on Saturday at the Pasadena Hilton. It lasted from 8:30 to 12:30, and music was provided by the Big Beat. This special dance, along with Friday's festivities and the first football victory, made Homecoming Weekend a very exciting and memorable occasion.

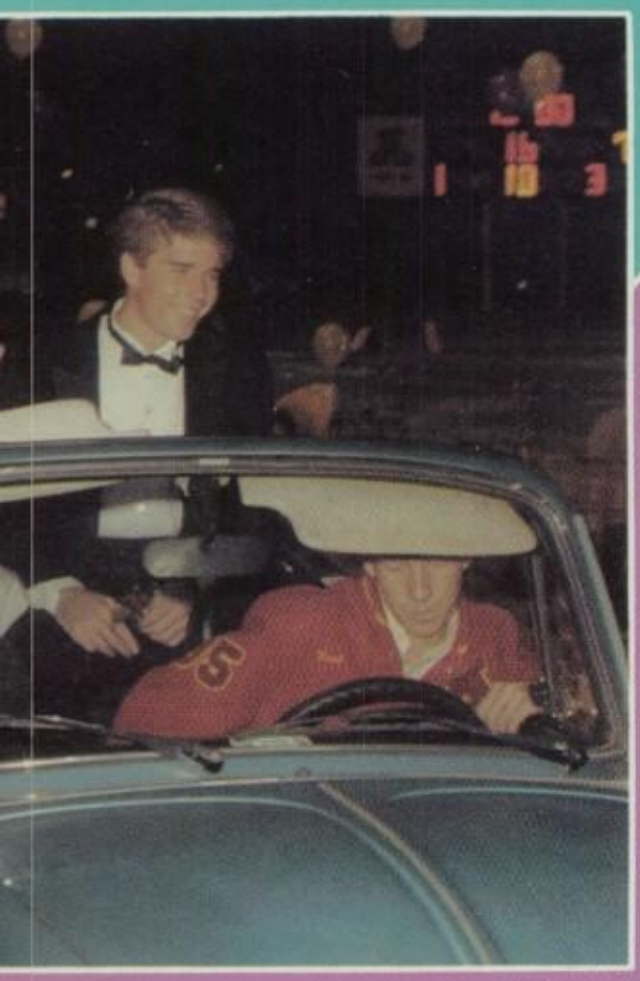
King Rick Harris and queen Valerie Fauria smile as they take the traditional ride around the track. For many, halftime was the highlight of the evening.

Dancing to a 50's tune sung by Julie Elmore and Julie Shatafian, Tiffany Grohs and Mike Meerkreebs be-bop to "New Orleans." Executive Council students danced along, helping to create an exciting 50's atmosphere.



In honor of the homecoming court and alumni, a semi-formal dance was held at the Pasadena Hilton. This special night gave friends, Gery Montanino and Erin Osband, a time to enjoy each others company.

Upon being crowned homecoming king and queen, Rick Harris and Valerie Fauria, congratulate each other with a warm hug.



Adding to the excitement of halftime, a skydiver landed on the field, announcing the king and queen with a presentation of roses.

ANARCHY IN ARCADIA?

Fads can be anything from clothes and cars, to music and sayings. Walking through the Arcadia High Campus, one experienced many of these so called "fads."

Clothes express personality and individuality. Whether you decided to dress casual, mod, punk, faddish, heavy metal, or like a skinhead, it was your own personal preference. Day-glow clothes consisting of anything fluorescent, seemed to be most popular with the sophomore and junior girls. Lori Benninghoven commented, "I love day-glow clothes because they're really colorful, and it's a great way to show off your tan." Most dressed casually and comfortably in t-shirts and Levi's to suit their own tastes. The administration's dress code restricted the styles of heavy metallers, punkers. They weren't allowed to wear chains, spikes, ripped t-shirts, or have bizarre hair coloring. This upset a few, but didn't seem to affect the variations of clothing among students.

Strange sounds started riding on the radio airwaves. Hiccups, panting, ringing telephones, and other weird sounds could be found on the FM dial. Cyndi Lauper, David Bowie, Billy Idol, Madonna, and Bruce Springsteen were popular artists. Other groups such as the Jacksons, Huey Lewis and the News, Twisted Sister, PiL, Style Council, Untouchables, and Iron Maiden could be heard on KLOS, KIIS, and KROQ.

There seemed to be a yellow sea of hair among boys and girls. Being blonde was "in", and many had their hair professionally bleached, or did it at home. Mousses, gels, and hair spray were in great demand this year. The general direction of hair seemed to be going, literally, up. Of course there were many who 1) had their natural hair color, 2) didn't follow the trends, and 3) had a hairstyle that looked good on themselves.

Most of all, everyone wanted to be unique and not look exactly like their friends. All of these different styles added color, fun, and fashion to the student body.

Color coordination is present in this school spirited duo. The school parking lot was filled with colorful cars such as these.

Many students show their musical interests through the clothes which they wear. John Dubin is obviously an avid fan of Black Sabbath.

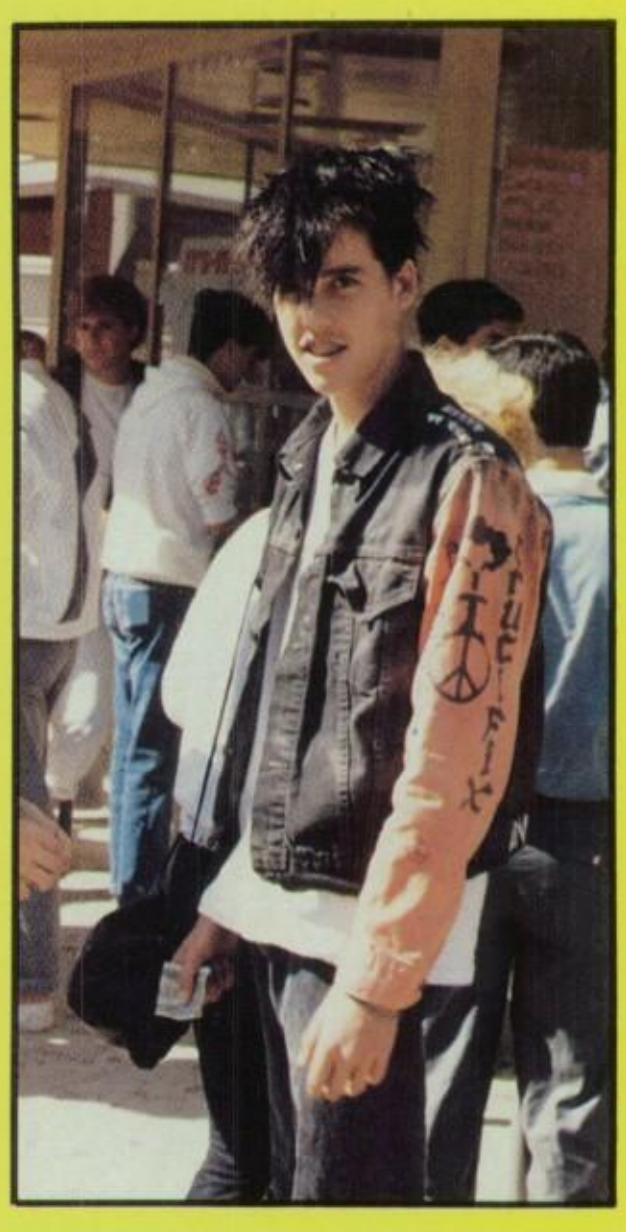
Pondering on what to eat for lunch, senior Craig Pousen smiles mischievously while illustrating the skinhead attire.

First lunch gave Korinna Reader, Doreen Masseling, Britt Smith, and Anastasia Preketes the opportunity to enjoy a quiet time with friends who have similiar fashion interests.

For Diana Mehler, Julie Leis, and Patty Fernandez, choosing their own creative styles is very important to show their individuality. The students' personalities were often displayed by the clothes which they wore.



Directing his thoughts on the upcoming Pil concert to sustain his hunger, Steve Kopp realizes that there will not be much time to eat after waiting in the long lunch lines.

Oh Those Friday Nights !?

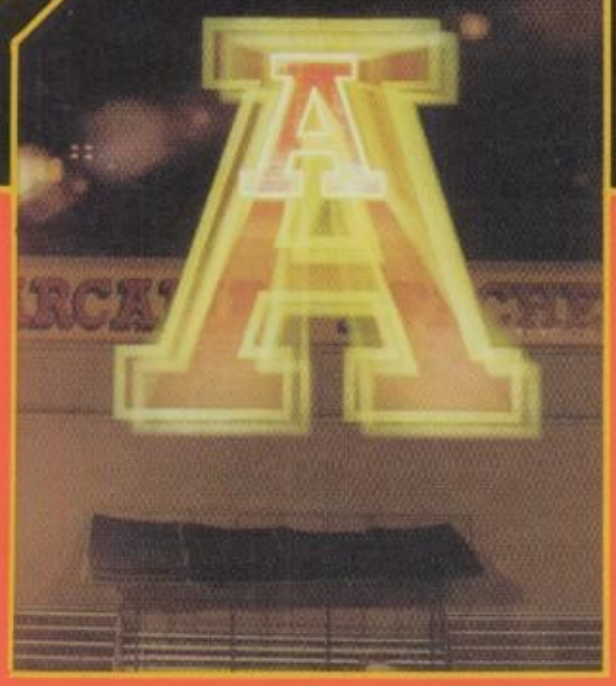
When you asked the typical student how the week had gone, he usually answered, "It had been far too long, had gone much too slow, and when the weekend finally rolled around it went by much too fast." This can be commonly diagnosed as school burnout. It hit the seniors during the first week of school, and was rapidly spreaded throughout the rest of the student body. Many, however, discovered quick remedies for these symptoms, and put them into practice on those long awaited Friday nights.

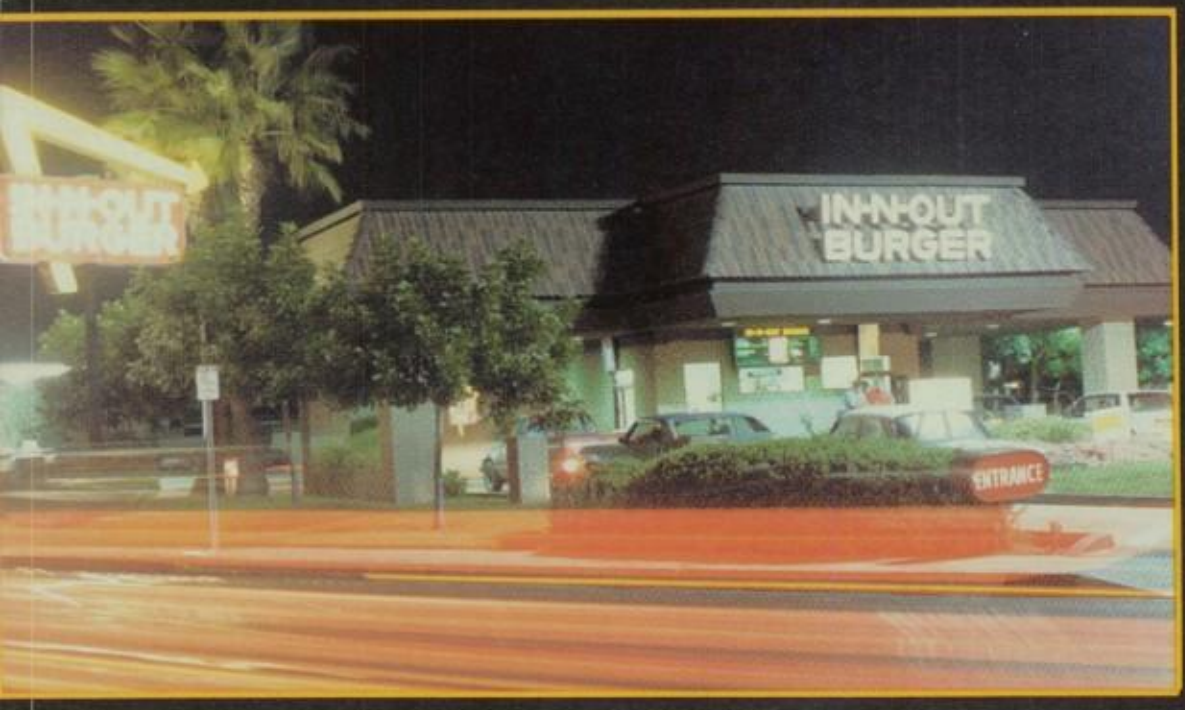
The favorite hangouts seemed to be associated with food. In-n-Out, Haagen Daz, Marie Calendar's, and Two-hey's were always occupied by Arcadian couples and close friends. Rodger Groves stated, "In-n-Out was a good place to talk about the game, and find out where all the parties were." The wilder types preferred dancing all night at Knott's, Seven Seas, the Odyssey, and the 321 Club. The big spenders had fun at various amusement parks, and everyone appreciated a good concert at the Forum, Irvine Meadows, Pacific Amphitheater, Palladium, or the Palace.

It didn't matter what you did on a Friday night, just as long as you were having fun. The majority went to the football games to cheer their favorite football players and socialize with their friends. Afterwards, many hit In-n-Out to see what was going on, and whose parents were away for the weekend. Leslie Wohlford quipped, "Friday nights were always special, because I could always count on my friends to help me forget about school." Parties seemed to be the popular spot for either meeting that special someone or just relieving the week's tensions with close friends.



The electric "A" signifies a triumphant victory for the Apaches. It's awesome lighting was captured on the night Arcadia prevailed over Glendale, 36-7.

In high spirits at the football game vs. Temple City Julie Blacklock, Camille Lemos, and Gina Palladino, are all smiles as they spend the evening with good friends



In-n-Out is the favorite hangout for students after Friday night football games. Arcadians flock here when they feel hungry, bored, or sociable.

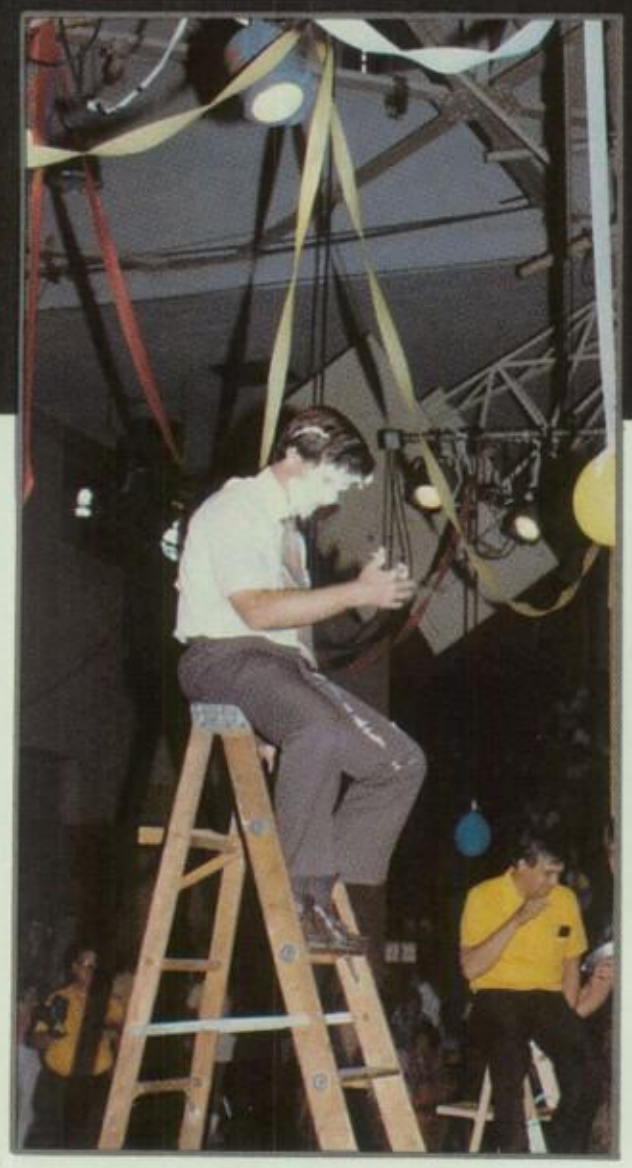
Craziness is a pre-requisite for all Pep Band members. Here, the zany group of students display their ability to not only be great performers; but also enjoy what they do.

All smiles for the camara, seniors Michelle Case, Kris Komota, Sue Gledhill, and Cristy Rear support the Apaches by cheering on the football team on a Friday night game.

In celebration of Vicki Partridge's sixteenth birthday, members of the Varsity Cheer squad toast to the happy occasion at a football game. Pepsi and Stir&Frost cakes were a common birthday gift among students.

Apache Joe, alias Chris Ballmer, predicts the outcome of the Temple City football game at the first pep assembly. The identity of the new Apache Joe was kept a secret until this assembly.

In order to gain revenge on the new vice principal, Mr. White, the seniors cheered the loudest for the quickest results. This game was one of the favorites of the students.



Clad in spirited uniforms, the pep squad cheerfully watch the song girls execute their routine during snack.

At the year's first pep assembly, sophomores Kim Saxelby and Laura Mariotti laugh as their class representative approaches Mr. Payne with a pie.

APACHE PRIDE

Pepping up a school whose enrollment is approximately 2,300 is not an easy task, but the student body was lucky to have a talented and high spirited pep squad. Song girl Carin Parmenter stated, "Being in the pep squad takes up a lot of time and hard work, but it's been a really fun and special experience." The pep squad held rallies or assemblies at snack or lunch on Fridays to psyche up the student body for the night's football game. They kicked off the school year with a "Beach Party" type of pep rally. Throughout the year, they performed routines to such groups as, Wham, the Romantics, Cyndi Lauper, Electricity, and the GoGos. Varsity Cheer member Karleen Lokker said, "The pep assemblies were great, because we all had a good time trying to hype everyone up." In addition to cheering on the football team, the pep squad amazingly managed to support the other sports as well. Flag girl Jenny Choi summed it up for the whole squad when she stated, "Though it was energy draining most of the time, I loved it because we all became such good friends."

At the first pep assembly held the day of the Arcadia vs. Temple City football game, the flag girls perform their routine to Wham's "Wake me up before you go-go."

To finish off a pep rally during lunch, the pep squad cheers to the traditional fight song. This routine is performed at the end of each pep assembly and rally.

One of the qualities the varsity cheerleaders have is their ability to pass their school spirit on to the students. Michelle Sheppard motivates the crowd in one of the squad's many routines.

FUN IN THE SUN

"I can't wait 'till the last day of school!" said anxious senior Brad Silcox. Summertime was the most anticipated vacation for the majority of A.H.S. students. Thoughts of summer began forming in early May as the heat built in the crowded classrooms. Plans were made for waterskiing, trips to the mountains, and especially to spend days at the beach.

When summer finally arrived, students wasted no time getting into the spirit. Just a few days after school let out Mrs. Primozich, Mr. Brown, Mrs. Joiner, and 30 students set off to explore Europe. They visited Italy, Austria, Germany, France, England, and took a three day cruise of the Greek Islands. A.F.S. students also spent a great deal of the summer living in various countries around the world. For those who did not have the opportunity to travel to far and distant places, plans were made for excitement in Southern California. Many students vacationed in Lake Arrowhead, Palm Springs, Newport Beach, and the River, as well as visited relatives. Others spent their summer working part and full-time, usually for various businesses in the Arcadia Community. Towards the middle of the summer many fall sports teams began practicing in preparation for their seasons. As Penny Parker thought back, "The best times I remember from volleyball practices were the ones when we were dying of heat!"

Another excitement that summertime '84 brought was the 23rd Olympics. Since many of the events were scheduled in or around Los Angeles, students were able to attend and cheer on the United States teams.

However one spent this three month vacation, summer was definitely a time to relax with friends. Gina Palladino summed it up by saying, "Everything was better during the summer because you didn't have to worry about the pressures of school."

A day at the Arboretum is a great way for friends Natalie Aiwasian and Karen Broeske to enjoy the warm weather. Since summer is about the only season to enjoy the outdoors, many took advantage of it.

On their way to the beach, Natalie Segundo and Kim Lau look forward to getting a great tan. Spending an afternoon at the beach was the kind of day that everyone enjoyed.

It's rise and shine for the brass section as they begin practice very early in the morning at Band Camp. Practicing at Camp Buckhorn started the band out to a very successful season.

The island of Myconos in Greece is one of the best tourist spots for Gina Scalise, Laura Vanlandingham, Susie Gorjans, Michelle Adkins, and Mrs. Primozich to visit. Since this was their first stop, they had much more to look forward to in Europe.

The summer is the perfect time for Lisa Taquino and Ken Miller to enjoy a campout in the fresh mountain air. Many students agreed that escaping from civilization for a few days was wonderful.

Admiring the selection of baskets, Theresa Samuelson and her Colombian mother enjoy shopping on a hot summer day. The experience of being an AFS student gave Theresa the chance to learn about a different culture.

Many friends gather together for summer camp at Westmont College. Spending time with many friends during vacation proved to be the most enjoyed activity.

PUPPY LOVE ?

For some students, it was more than puppy love. For others, dating meant going out with a real good friend or just someone they thought was really cute. Yet, for whatever reason, dating was a fun way to get together with that special someone for a movie, quiet dinner, or a party. Karen Hoffman said, "When I don't get to see John for more than two days, I just die." Many students found that penniless pockets kept the fun inexpensive, and without going all out for a dinner and a movie. Parties were a good place to have fun without spending a lot of money. Mike Sandlin said, "My two favorite things in life are football and Kelly." Whether you were dating seriously, or just going out with friends, being together and having a good time were the most important things.

Lunchtime is a great time for Rodger Groves and Leslie Wohlford to catch up on the day's news, and just be together.

Spending New Year's Eve together, Wendy Bullock and Chris Travisano talk to passers by during their dinner break on Colorado Blvd.

Just happy being together, Jeff Crowell and Michelle Waddell take time to say "cheese" during snack.

Snack gives the opportunity for Lisa Taquino and Ken Miller to take a break from everyday school life.

The Homecoming Dance turned out to be a romantic evening for Michelle Smith and Jim Sears.

Friends and Food Go Together

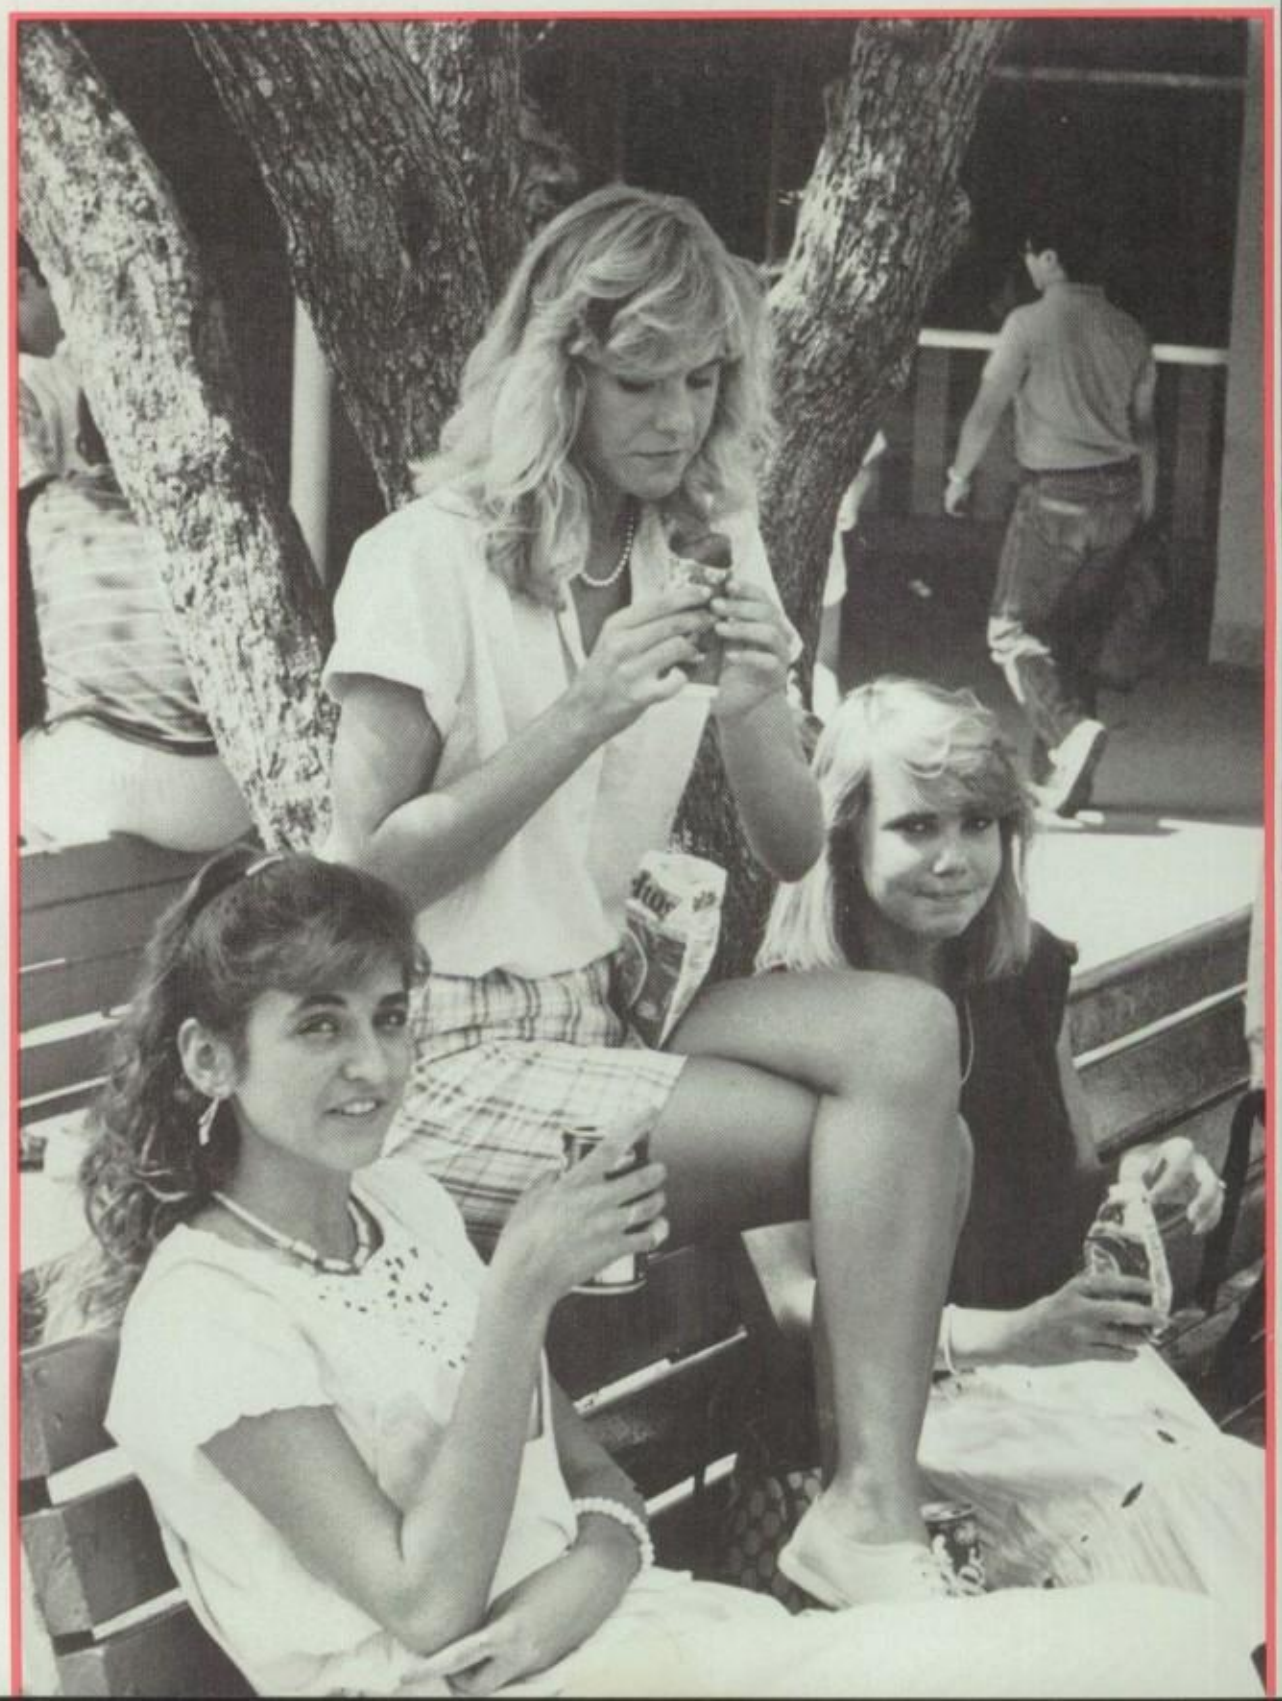
Sophomore: " I can't wait till lunch. Me & the guys can have a rad ice fight."
Junior: "I wish I had open lunch. Everything's so boring here, and I'm sick of the food."
Senior: "Where to for lunch, guys? I'm kinda sick of the mall."

Statements such as these were heard from students in different classes during the day. Snack and lunch were the two main breaks during the school day that were looked forward to and enjoyed by the majority of AHS students. Both breaks enabled students to socialize with friends as well as grab something to eat. Some students found other ways to spend this time. "Sometimes I go to the library during lunch to read the newspaper," stated John Kelly.

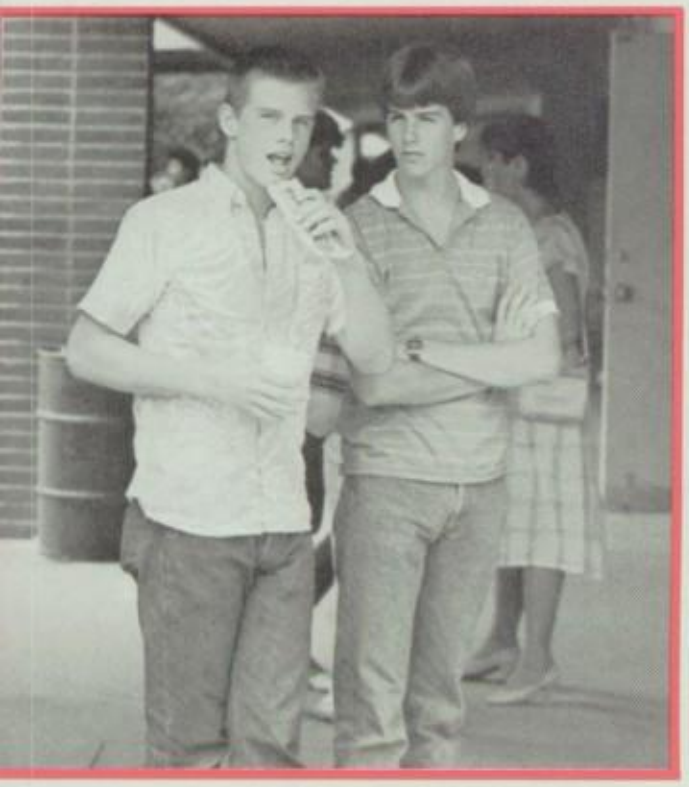
Snack was a time to catch up on the day's earlier events. Activities planned for the remaining week were discussed and anticipated. Students used this time to run errands to the office, to make important phone calls, and to make appointments with their counselors. Yet, the majority of the students congregated around the pavillion and in the cafeteria to munch on donuts and enjoy a few moments with their friends.

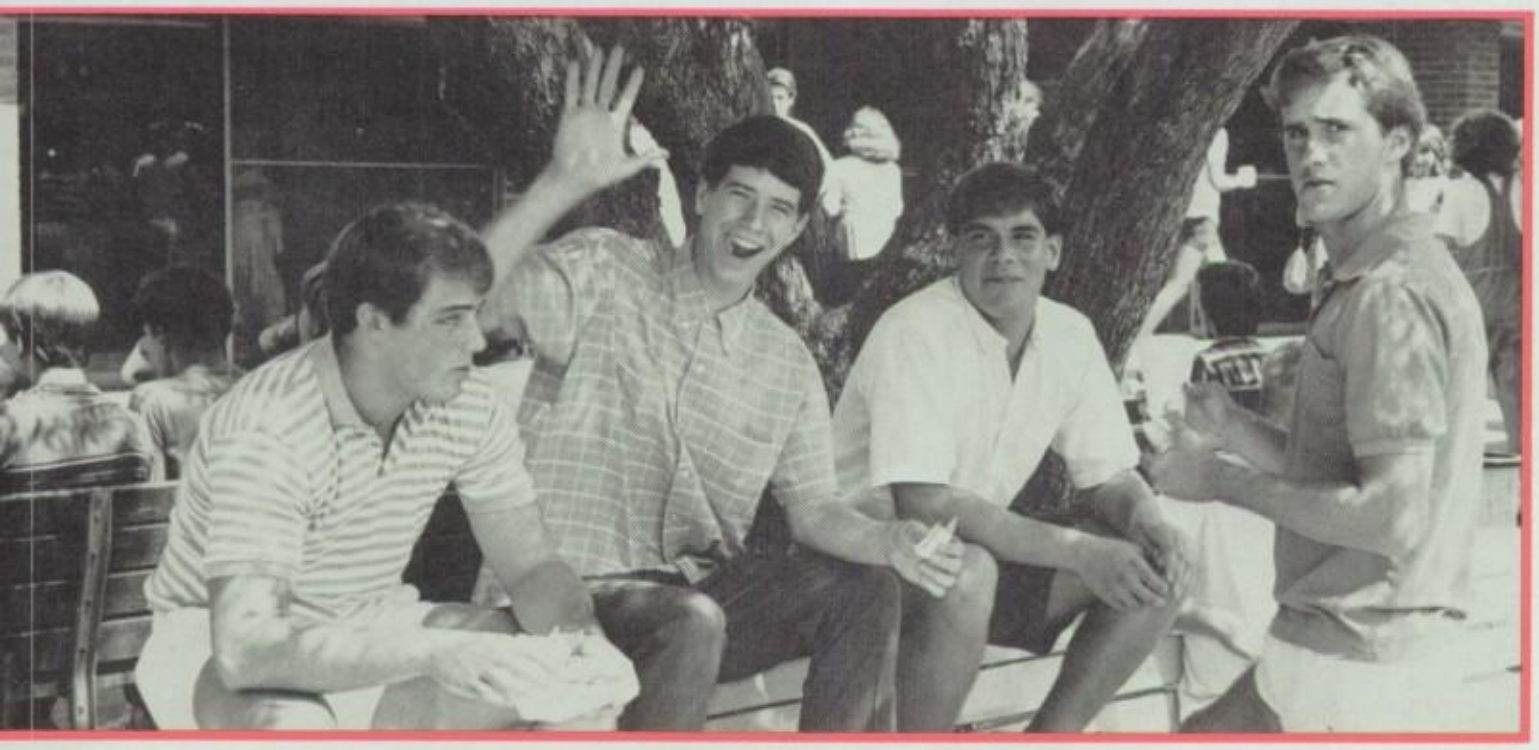
Although lunch had been shortened by three minutes, students still found this time to be quite relaxing. On the other hand, seniors who had the privelege to leave campus for lunch, discovered that this shortened amount of time was a cause for unnecessary tardies. Despite the shortened time, seniors continued using their offcampus privelege by eating at popular places such as Ardella's Pizza, the Belly Buster, Carl's Junior, and Taco Lita. Open lunch also gave the opportunity to go home for a hot meal or to get a forgotten book.

Junior Liza Busser finds humor in the fact that Susan Proctor would rather sip some apple juice than help her study for her geometry test. Some students did decide to study during lunch because it was the perfect time to do some extra cramming before a big test.



Skipping the hectic air of open lunch, Seniors Teri Nardelli, Kathy Neal, and Dina Whiteside gobble down their lunch while relaxing in the shade. Many seniors chose to remain on campus during lunch because many of the food restaurants were often too crowded.





While grabbing a bite to eat before third period, Juniors Dan Outsen and Mark Jefferson focus their attention on likely prospects for dates for the upcoming weekend. Many students found snack the best time to talk to that special someone.

One of the great advantages during lunch for sophomores is being able to have a choice of soft drinks, as shown by the excitement of Alisa Hidalgo and Traci Labarrie. Many sophomores liked the freedom of high school lunch, even though they knew that they would have to wait two more years for open lunch priviledge.

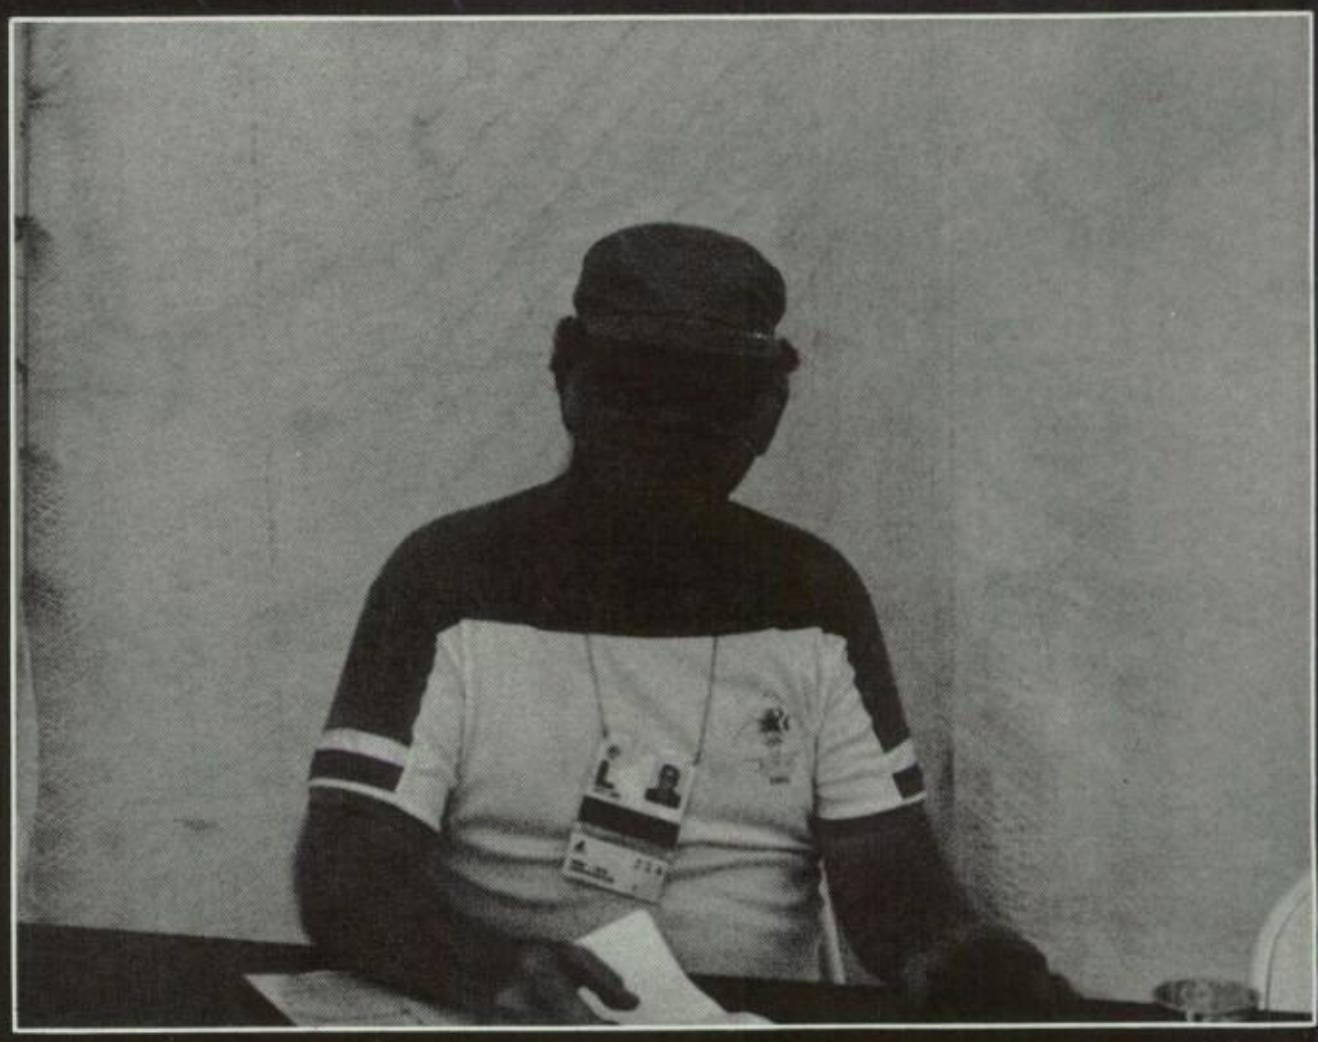
Four of Arcadia's studs, Phil Wenker, Kevin Tierney, Dan Tunnicliff, and Tony Werbelow, enjoy a mere half hour of social time during second lunch.

During the break between the first quarter final periods, Roger Erickson, Steve Pastula, Traci Labarrie, and Stacy Podliska decide they like the idea of having a minimum day. The last day of final's week was always looked forward to because it ended at noon and it gave AHS students an unlimited time for lunch.

XXIII OLYMPIAD

The enthusiasm of the 1984 Los Angeles Summer Games was felt throughout Southern California, as well as in our own hometown of Arcadia. As most know, Arcadia's own Santa Anita Race Track was the site of the Olympic Equestrian Events. The Olympics were greatly awaited as seen by the various signs and billboards, such as the count down billboard posted in front of the Chamber of Commerce.

Many of Arcadia's residents were making plans to leave town for the Olympics. Kristin Ramage said, "There will be so many people and so much traffic, so my family has decided to go to Maine until the Olym-



Arcadia High's school marquee was one of the many places in Arcadia which displayed the anxiety of the long awaited Olympic Equestrian Events.

People from many places around the world, including Arcadia, found themselves gazing up towards the flame that symbolized the spirit of America.

Taking a break from the hectic and important job of dispatching and securing buses for the Olympics, Mr. Dodd smiles for a picture at the East L.A. City College.

os Angeles underwent many changes to accommodate the arrival of the summer games.
Many changes were made such as the expan-
ion of the Los Angeles International Airport, n Olympic Velodrome for the cycling events at Cal State Dominguez Hills, and a new Olympic size swimming pool at USC. These new changes, along with the excitement spread throughout L.A., made the 1984 summer Games an exciting event which will always be remembered.

The summer of '84 brought many visitors and athletes from around the world to L.A. for the Olympics. In the heart of the city, the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum stands in remembrance of the excitement and splendor of this special event.

Mary Decker's confidence was crushed when the young South African runner Zola Budd, accidentally cut her off. Mary took a terrible fall which caused her to be disqualified from the race.

Live at the Forum in Inglewood, Simon LeBon of Duran Duran, could hardly be heard above all the screaming girls throughout their "Seven and the Ragged Tiger" tour.

The charismatic Annie Lennox of the Eurythmics caused quite a commotion with her shaved orange hair and men's style clothing. Nevertheless, she was voted "Best Female Artist" by Rolling Stone magazine.

"The Boss", alias Bruce Springsteen, broke concert records across the U.S. with his incredible live performances during his "Born In the U.S.A." tour.

Saving ticket stubs and other memorabilia was a must for avid concert goers.

Located on Colorado Boulevard in Pasadena, Moby Disc Records was a favorite place to purchase popular and import records, tapes, magazines, and posters.

The talented English rocker Billy Idol became a "household name" through endless concert tours, videos, and hard work. Being gorgeous and good looking also got his foot in the door at most homes.

Mother-to-be, Pat Benatar, enjoyed the success of her "Tropico" Lp which contained the hit, "We Belong."

DON'T STOP !

The year of 1984-85 was another great step in the development of new music, videos, and video movies. The "British Invasion" was still going strong, and other groups from Australia, Canada, Germany and the U.S. were popular as well.

English bands dominated the radio waves. The splitting up of the English Beat resulted in a new band, General Public. They were known for their danceable hit, "Tenderness." The politically powerful U2 released the Lp "The Unforgettable Fire," which included "Pride, In the Name of Love," a single dedicated to the late Martin Luther King. Longtime star David Bowie reached the Top 10 with "Jazzing for Blue Jean" off his "Tonight" Lp. Billy Idol gained even more popularity this year for his 1983 released "Rebel Yell." The album contained the singles, "Rebel Yell," "Eyes Without A Face," "Flesh For Fantasy," and "Catch My fall." The controversial Boy George cut off his dreadlocks and dyed his hair bizarre colors. He was recognized for the popular "War Song." Some other English bands who were popular among students were, Def Leppard, Duran Duran, Pil, the Police, the Psychedelic Furs, the Sex Pistols and Style Council.

Bands from "down under" were listened to by the students as well. The Australian INXS went on their first American tour with their "Original Sin" Lp. Split Enz and AC/DC were others from Australia who could be heard on the radio.

The "great white North" produced some new bands. Corey Hart was recognized for "Sunglasses at Night" and "Ain't Enough for You." Scandal climbed high in the Top 40 with "Beat of the Heart" and "The Warrior" off their Lp with the same name.

The German heavy metal band, the Scorpions were popular on KMET and KLOS. This band was a favorite among hard rockers.

Of course none of these countries' bands compared with the American groups. Acts like Pat Benatar, the Cars, Hall and Oates, Micheal Jackson, Cyndi Lauper, Madonna, Prince, Quiet Riot, Bruce Springsteen, Twisted Sister and Van Halen were always present on the charts and the radio. The talented new artists, Huey Lewis and the News, went platinum with their "Sports" Lp and Cyndi Lauper sold millions of copies of "She's So Unusual." Madonna's long awaited Lp "Like A Virgin" shot straight to the top of the album charts. Micheal Jackson, Prince, and Bruce Springsteen made history with their concert tours.

Music videos were almost as big as the songs themselves. People sought the visual effects of their favorite songs. The videos were entertaining, fun, and exotic. The pioneer MTV was still widely viewed. New shows like Video One, Video Beat, and Video 22 also became popular for those who wished to watch their favorite videos.

The music and videos of 1984-85 will be remembered for their originality and because of the great music that just didn't stop.

Pep Squad buds, Kacy Kuhn, Roanna Morales, and Bonnie Foster, know that dressing up for Halloween is the only way to go.

After a casual dinner at Twoheys, enthusiastic pals, Caryn McNamee, Lori Benninghoven, Cindy Stephens, Eileen Sartinsky, and Maj Harmon, gather together to watch their favorite movie "Rumblefish."

A group of infamous AHS seniors join together at the T.C. game to cheer on their Apache fotball team, while enjoying the excitement of the Friday night with their friends.

Friends Will Always Be There

If ever you're depressed or mad,
Your friends will be there if your mood is bad.
So don't despair, for they really do care,
And they won't go away like a passing fad.

There's been many a day when I've felt blue,
And there's always a friend to be at my rescue.
It's nice to be loved and not pushed or shoved,
Because it makes life easier for you.

Friends are essential in having fun,
Whether it's a Friday night party or tanning in the sun.
They'll always give you a ride, and I've not had one who's lied,
Since the time that I've been very young.

No matter what, they always understand,
Despite an occasional tiff about your favorite band.
They're something you can't live without, and
Their loyalty is guaranteed no doubt.

HERE COMES

. . . Ring. . . "Hi Tracie, this is Paul. Were you asleep?"

"Yes, it's only 12:00!"

"Sorry, I was just wondering if you would like to go skiing with me today."

"Sounds great!"

This was a typical conversation for students at Arcadia High. Throughout the entire school week, students anticipated skiing, shopping, dancing, or just plain sleeping in for their weekend activities. The weekend was a time for being with friends and family, and getting away from the pressures of school. Going out with your favorite guy or girl was also a popular weekend activity. Many couples found this to be the perfect time to go the movies or a favorite restaurant. Sophomore Stephanie Wright said, "I like to spend my weekends getting together with friends and my boyfriend and taking a break from school." Many students spent Saturdays calling friends and finding out where all the parties were. To earn money, students acquired jobs at places such as McDonald's, Haagen Daz, or at one of the many stores in Arcadia's Fashion Park. Dave Bourland commented, "Even though working at Thrifty's isn't my idea of a great weekend, it helps me rake in the dough." Sundays were used to recuperate from the weekend, and finish up uncompleted homework.

All in all, the weekend was a well needed break from school and looked forward to by all students. Brian Holt summed up the view of many by exclaiming, "Weekends are what I live for!"

For many Arcadia students, the weekend is a perfect time to earn extra money. Todd Hollinger and Russ O'Hare spend their Saturday pumping gas at Fasching's Car Wash.

Many people enjoy sneaking away for the weekend to escape school pressures and the "Arcadia scene." Here, Nick Costanza and Cory Haigh enjoy a brisk winter day skiing at Mammoth Mountain.

THE WEEKEND

Socializing at parties is a great way to make new friends. Trisha Carlson, Megan Maudsley, Colleen Hanrahan, and Laurie Whipple get together and enjoy each other's company.

Getting together with your closest pals is a fun and relaxing way to spend a weekend.

Reflecting on the week's past events, Kelly Barnes, Laura Vanlandingham, Leslie Wohlford, Jenny Greep, and Marla Funk share the latest gossip while grabbing a bite to eat.

THE PRESIDEN

For the majority of students at Arcadia High, the presidential election was not an activity in which they were involved in. Despite it's importance, most were under the age 18, and were not old enough to vote. Some seniors, however, were "legal adults," and did exercise this right. Sean Perry stated, "I voted for Reagan, because it was what my friends, "the Black Soul Man" and "the Pep Boy" thought would be best for their cause." Many formed their own opinions about the candidates, although some simply went along with their parent's views. Junior Cory Haigh said, "I got sick of all the presidential debates, because they pre-empted all the good T.V. shows." The candidates for this year were, Gary Hart, Jesse Jackson, John Glenn, Walter Mondale, Alan Cranston, Ted Kennedy, and the winner, Ronald Reagan. Many thought Reagan did a good job in his term and re-elected him for a second term.

January 21, 1985 was a glorious day for the re-elected President Ronald Reagan and First Lady Nancy Reagan.

"America's best days are yet to come," quoted the President at the news of his re-election.

Walter Mondale
47%

Democratic candidate Walter Mondale put up a ough campaign for the seat in the White House. Michigan was "Mondale Territory." His large ollowing challenged all those in favor of Rea- an.

At the news of his re-election, Ronald Reagan smiles happily at his fans.

Enjoying a dream come true, Andrea Martinez rides down Colorado Blvd. as a member of the Pasadena Rose Court. She was chosen out of 800 contestants to be on the 1985 court.

What did Jolyn Fry say to make Billy Gomez feel so embarassed? Along with Joe Palladino and Matt Waken, the four roughed it along the sidewalk of Colorado Blvd. on New Years Eve.

Chanteur member Paul De Haven is getting Nuttin for Christmas because he tore his pants. This whimsical routine delighted the student body at the Christmas Assembly.

Rockin around the Christmas tree, Ani Hadjian, Lori Benninghaven and Cyndi Stephens let out their emotions on Christmas Eve.

Merry Christmas ! Love, Santa

For long time friends, Diane Hrstich and Lisa Ganguin, the Christmas season meant not only exchanging gifts but time to make their last Christmas in high school the best.

Taking a break from swooshing down the slopes, Peter Kelly, Mike Bushey, and Dave Spallina scan on some ski bunnies. One of the most crowded areas to ski over the holidays was Mammoth Mountain.

When the month of December finally came, the excitement of Christmas was in the air. To start the spirit early in the month the Orchestra, Chanteurs, and New Spirit put on the annual Holiday Concert at the San Gabriel Civic Auditorium. The Chandelier Ball, held at the Santa Anita Turf Club, enhanced the Christmas mood with the theme, "Twas the Night Before Christmas." "It was like Christmas started a little earlier since the dance was in the beginning of December," stated sophomore Eric Seastedt.

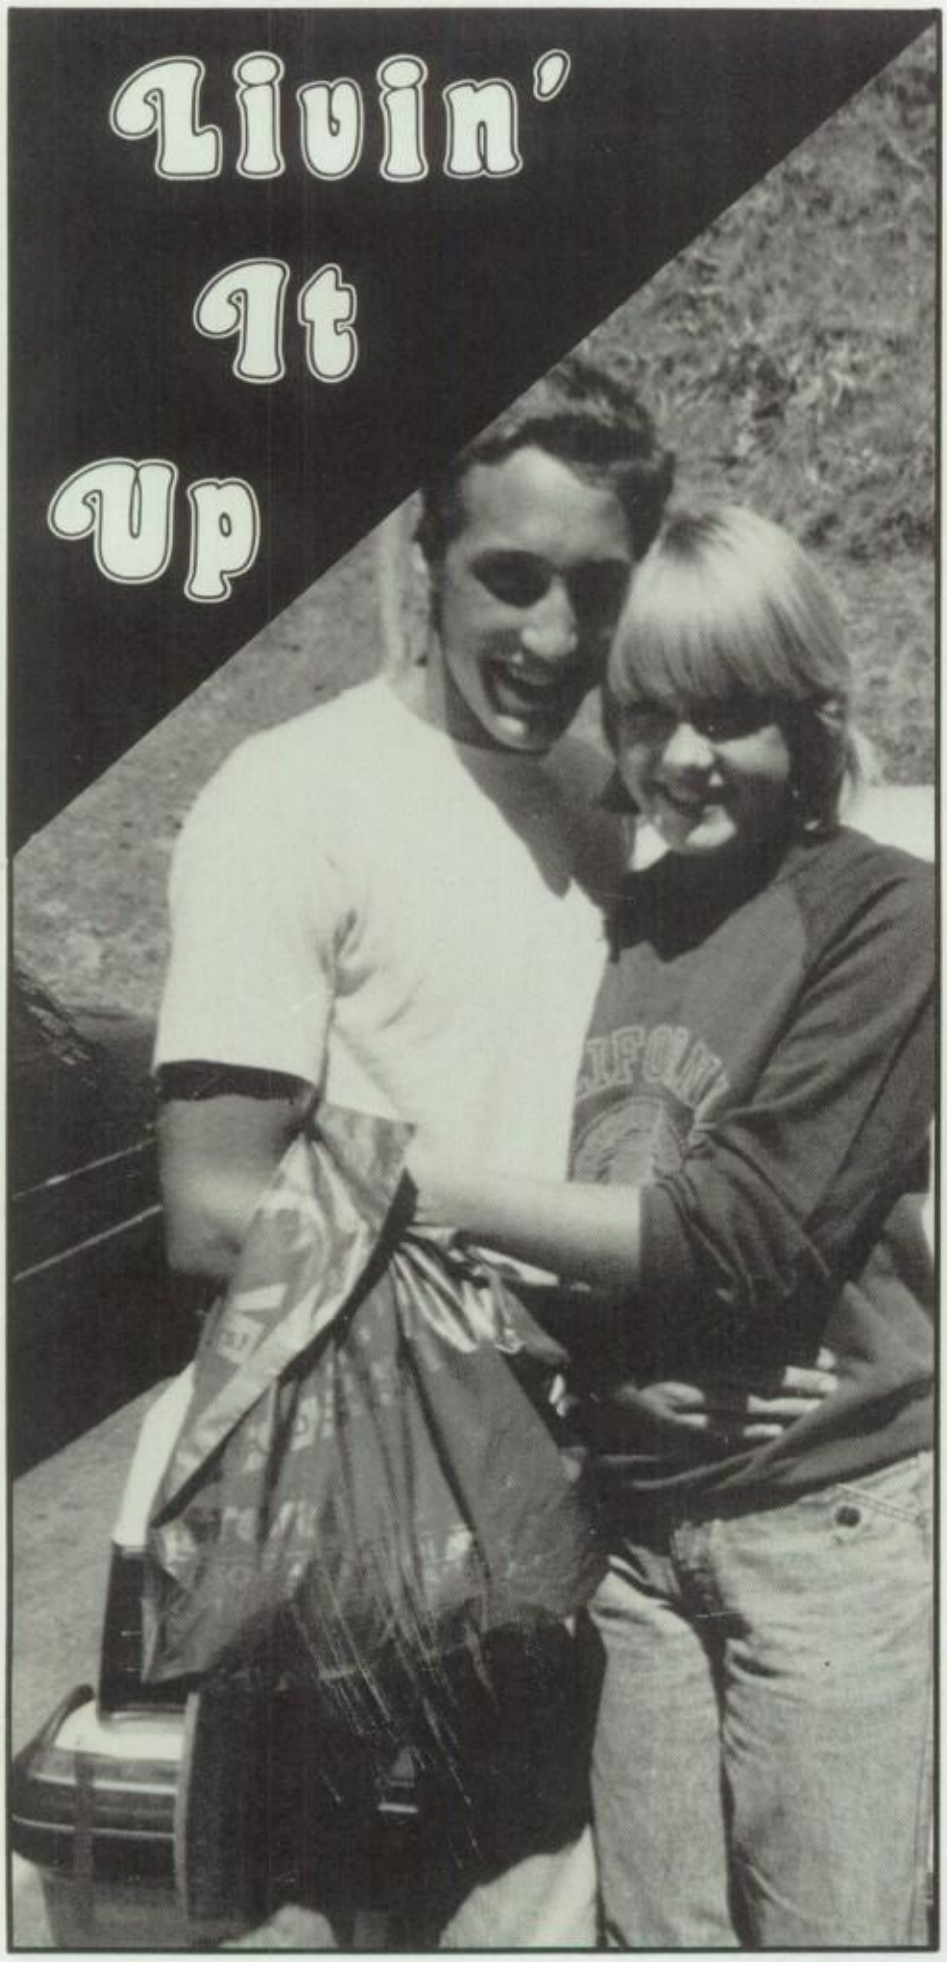
Just two days before vacation the holiday assembly was held. The Orchestra and choral groups entertained us with many Christmas favorites, and the Orchesis showed off their dancing talent. There was also a special visit from Santa.

December 21st finally arrived and the two week vacation began with only three shopping days left before Christmas. Many were anxious for December 25 to come as soon as possible, but for those who celebrated the holiday of Hanukkah, gifts were received over a period of eight days. "Even though my family celebrates Hanukkah, I love the Christmas season!" remarked Jodi Friedman. After Christmas there was still lots of vacation to fill up. Many chose to go after-Christmas shopping, to get in some part-time work, and, of course, to ski. Mammoth Mountain was a popular place to enjoy this winter's abundance of snow, as well as the closer resorts such as Holiday Hill and Ski Summit.

Another big day came during vacation and that was New Years. Most students were found sleeping on the sidewalks of Colorado Blvd. waiting to see the Rose Parade the next morning. This year at the Rose Parade the spectators of Arcadia got to see more than just our city float go by but also our Apache Marching Band.

All in all, the Christmas season was a time to enjoy the brisk air, relax with family and friends, and to celebrate a great season.

Livin' It Up



The end of the school year brought out many different feelings from students. For most, it was a sign of relief. Sophomores and Juniors were glad to get closer to graduating from high school and seniors were eager to go to college or do their own thing. June was either the happiest or the saddest time of the year. One thing was for sure, the summer vacation had been long awaited, and plans were made by all to really live it up.

For the majority of students, end of the year activities were the most fun. The Prom, the Donkey Basketball Game, Pep Squad tryouts, Student Council elections, daily trips to the beach etc., signified the end of the old school year, and best of all, summer vacation. Dan Kruse commented, "The last day of school is my favorite day of the year." Near the end of school, most people thought of these memories: parties, football games, ski trips, beach trips, dates, dances, vacations, weekends, etc. The end of school brought people closer together, and together, for the last time.

One of the many things seniors must plan to do at the end of their high school years is decide on a college to go to. Kim Freeland, Kris Komota, Karen Hoffman, and Valerie Fauria visit the campus of Cal Poly Pomona.

The end of the school year also meant lots of beach trips. Getting together with close friends was the funnest way to make a day-off from school worthwhile.

Taking off for Europe at the end of the year is an exciting way to kick off the summer. This was true for these Arcadia High students.

For seniors Mike Weller, Bob Nicholson, and Brad Silcox, deciding on a tux for the Prom was a major task.

Caught in the act of having "senioritis," Laura Vanlandingham and Susie Gorgans spend their school day at the beach.

With Style!

Clad in his Santa cap, Brian Nash displays his Christmas spirit at the Chandelier Ball.

Grooving to the Big Beat, Val Verkouteren and Rocky Finnochiaro dance the night away at the Homecoming Dance.

Susan May and Bill Hudson enjoy the food and drinks provided at the Homecoming Dance.

Special Evenings

Formal dances are always an exciting part of school life, but this year, thanks to the efforts of many special people, the dances were even better than ever. The money for tickets, dresses, tuxedoes, and flowers turned out to be well spent for the fun and excitement if provided.

The Homecoming Dance, usually non-formal, was changed to be the first formal dance of the year. Titled "Always Be Together," this dance was held at the Pasadena Hilton. Many Arcadia alumni returned to reminisce about the past high school years.

The Chandelier Ball, the second dance of the year, was held at the Santa Anita Turf Club. Everyone enjoyed the band, "Metropolis," who varied their songs by playing popular music from the sixties up to the present.

This year, the Valentine's Dance was even more special than usual because it was held on a cruise ship. The Executive Council organized this semi-formal affair and titled it, "Cruise of the Cupids."

The last formal dance of the year was the Prom, held at the Anaheim Marriott. Everyone bopped and waltzed to the funky sounds of the Big Beat and Bill Tolle's Orchestra. Overall, the formal dances were the highlights of the school year.

Swaying to the music at the Chandelier Ball, Carin Parmenter and Ted Ballmer spend a romantic evening together.

Bob Nicholson and Hayden Bixby gaze at the star alighting the Christmas tree at the Chandelier Ball.

Arcadia Royalty

Representing the City of Arcadia are four students from Arcadia High, Doreen Bohn, Vikki Condit, Colleen Hanrahan, and the queen, Martha Torres. Besides appearing in the Rose Parade, these girls attend various luncheons and meetings with other city officials. Princess Vikki commented, "The memories I have with the rest of the court are ones that I will treasure for the rest of my life."

Do They Know It's Christmas?

Band Aid featured the best of English music talent performing free to help the victims of famine in Ethiopia. Formed by Bob Geldof, some of these artists were, Bananarama, Culture Club, Duran Duran, Frankie Goes to Hollywood, Heaven 17, Phil Collins, Paul Young, Paul McCartney, Boomtown Rats, Spandau Ballet, Style Council, Sting, Ultravox, U2, Wham, and many more. All proceeds of their Christmas record went to aid starving people in Ethiopia. The record not only helped to relieve the famine, but also encouraged people all around the world to support the Ethiopian cause.

Death Of A Legend

"I don't mind if my life goes in the service of the nation, If I die today, every drop of my blood will invigorate the nation." These words were spoken by the prime minister of India, Indira Gandhi, the night before her death. Mrs. Gandhi was assasinated on October 31, 1984. She was one of the greatest prime ministers of India, "Indira is India, India is Indira," was the nationwide slogan. Her strength and leadership developed the one-time third world country into a strong industrial nation. Thirty-six or more bullets were embedded into her body by her own Sikh bodyguards. Her death caused bloody revolts all over India. India was put into the hands of her son, Rajiv. Indira Gandhi was one of the greatest Indian legends of all time.

Retiring After 21 Years

Dr. Richard Cordano has been the principal of Arcadia High since 1964. He expressed that "he is extremely proud of all Arcadia High students." Yet, he chose to retire because the Superintendent of Schools was also retiring, and he felt that the District could have a "brand new start" in 1985. Dr. Cordano plans to keep busy in the future by building furniture in his shop. One of his most memorable experiences of being the principal of Arcadia High "was going to Australia with the Arcadia Band." Dr. Cordano has been an exceptional principal for 21 years, and his absence will be missed by all.

Baby Fae

Baby Fae won the hearts of millions of people. This little girl represented a breakthrough in medical technology. She was the first human being to have a heart transplant with that of a baboon. The news reported daily on her recovery but despite the tremendous efforts of numerous doctors, Baby Fae died.

Pride

The New Year's Rose Parade is viewed by millions of people all over the world. The Apache Band was honored to represent the City of Arcadia in the 1985 Tournament of Roses Parade. Janet Maljanian stated, "It was hard to spend 3 days a week of Christmas vacation practicing, but in the end it was worth it." The band made Arcadians proud as they marched down Colorado Boulevard, and Laurie Zirbel exclaimed, "I screamed my head off!"

Princess Andrea

Over one-thousand girls entered the tryouts for the 1985 Tournament of Roses Court. Out of that huge number of girls, one from Arcadia was able to make the famous ride down Colorado Boulevard. Princess Andrea Elizabeth Martinet was chosen to do this, and she said, "It was a great experience, because I got to meet lots of people." Besides the Rose Parade, Princess Andrea appeared on the "Bob Hope Christmas Special," and got a chance to fly the Good Year Blimp.

Imagining
the way life could be
is dreaming our dreams, setting new goals, and constantly changing. In our dreams
we must believe and seize the moment before it fades away. Vividly we see that place in time where reality and fantasy survive as one. There is a depth and quality of experience that is lived and felt, a recognition of what is truly meaningful. There exists a constant race for what is next, to succeed, and reach our farset goals.
As we grow and mature, we come in touch with our dreams, only to imagine the new horizons we must seek. This is the quality of life that we believe in.
These are the feelings we would like our work to inspire.
We are the artisans . . . and we've been crafted.

We are the dreamers...

Feelings on Paper — Part I

You keep smiling
in my mind
The films of us together
keep running over and over
through my head
I shed a lonely tear
because I miss you
I'm lost
and hold on to you
you live so far away
I feel so distant
and yet so close flashes
here they come again
I'm crying
It hurts
Someday in heaven
inside beauty
no obsticles shall protrude
"They" will leave me
alone and free
and "they" will let go of you,
all your confusions and worries
and then in unopened silence
I will softly kiss you . . .

-Ken Richmond

Loving you in this way
There are so many things I want to say
Everything we have to share
In every little way we care
So many things I have to show
And so many things I want to know
Know that I will always be near
And knowing that you will always be here
Everything we have to charish
I know that we will never parish

SCHOOL DAYS

Here I sit in a dreamy state,
Hoping Friday night I'll have a date.
If I don't I might cry,
Another day of Chemistry, I might die.
To school, to school, off I go,
Brains scattered, comprehension low.
So here I sit for another day,
Graduation is a price to pay.
It can't be over, please not yet,
Think of all the guys I haven't met.
The classes, the teachers, they all seem so real,
And all of my friends, I love a great deal.
Where would I be without them all?
Lunches and parties, we had a ball.
But now we must say goodbye
To the high school times,
And the tears that we cried.
Now as I go out on my own,
I know I will never be alone.

The future seems bright
Yet not so clear
Opportunity awaits me
Deep inside there's a fear
A fear of what's ahead of me
Will my decisions be alright?
A stage of independency
Will it be a hard fight?
High school is now over

Memories left behind
Is this when all the fun ends?
Will more memories be hard to find?
I anticipate the future
I'll hold my head up high
Whatever the future holds
I know that I'll get by College is the key to my future
Yet I won't lock the door to my past
For the past contains the friendships
With memories meant to last

Imagination

Zero Hour

Nothing moved.
Only stirred.
Mostly it was vapors. Long white pathways etched the sky, leading to nowhere; quickly gone.
The air was the only live element.
Swirling in multiple colors,
Blowing in countless ways.
There was no more confusion.
There were no opinions. Opinions were dead.
Faith had died with the people.
Nothing moved.
Only stirred.
Some people were praying when it happened.
But it wasn't Sunday.
Some people cried when it happened.
A brief wail before silence.
Some people laughed when it happened.
Surely it was a mistake?
But it happened.
And nothing moved.
Only stirred.

Can you survive in your own mind
Now that you're older, bolder.
Has meaningless talk lost its appeal?
Does marriage seem strangely real?
Can you see a void now?
Does the beer, the coke fill it now?
Fill it like it used to.
Does speed engage your every sense?
Do you think your mind is still intense?
Thought along with reason are appearing Strangling the very blood which flowed with you as a teen: recklessness.
Does ancient parental advice seem strangely significant?
Then age is creeping upon you.

But is the hour gone?
The hour of innocence, the hour of confidence?

Never, my friend, never.

Only A Dream

It was only a dream when he had first thought to try
That one day he would touch the sky.

Spreading his wings to the air
The young eagle thought to dare.

Each day going a little farther than the day he had first thought to soar
Each day going a little higher than the day he had gone before

Across the valley he could see his brothers soaring one, two, three . . .

He thought to himself, "One day I will partake in this chase with little effort and a lot of grace".

Then came the day, at his best,
He would try,
He would struggle,
he would put himself through the test.

First he fried, but in vain
Then returning and attempting it with gain

He spread his wings to the sun
Not knowing that this day would be the one.

His weary body stood tall and proud
Amidst the thunder of the roaring clouds.

The eagles cry beckoned him on his body slowly raised
In solemn dignity his victory was praised.

He seemed proudly basking in the glory of the victory he had won
Then lowered his head,
Finally realizing what he had done.

It was only a dream when he begun.

I want to leave
And be able to look back
With a smile
A smile
Felt for all my friends
Friends that I learned
So many valueable
Lessons from
I only hope that I was Somehow able
To give them a fraction
Of the love I felt so deeply
For them

And I want them all to know
That no one will ever replace
Those special memories
That I look back on
With satisfaction
And I somehow must believe
That they knew that
Despite all the pain
Love was what I had
For them all

After a while you learn the subtle difference between holding a hand
and chaining a soul,
And you learn that love doesn't mean
security,
And you begin to learn that kisses aren't contracts and presents aren't promises,
And you begin to accept your defeats
with your head up and your eyes open, with the grace of an adult, not the grief of a child,
And you learn to build all your roads
on today because tomorrow's ground is too uncertain for plans.
After a while you learn that even sunshine burns if you get too much.
So plant your own garden and decorate you own soul, instead of waiting for someone to bring you flowers.
And you learn that you really can endure . . . that you really are strong,
And you really do have worth.

Field Of Brine

Come into my field of brine.
Drink my words, taste my wine.
Even in the darkest nights.

Morning sun has faded grey
Raise your eyes to light of day.
Even in my weakest hours.

Sightless armies clash by night
Your sole oasis in a sea of fright.
Even in the blackest days.

Senseless conviction by a jury of peers
Will fall deaf upon my ears.
Even in the stillest eaves.

Gazing down the steepest cliff
I'll hold you from a deadly drift.
Even in the longest years.

Chariots of glass drive blindly on
Run until you see the dawn.
Even in the coldest times.

When The Tears Do Fall

When the lover leaves, and that is all one stands
alone, when the tears do
fall.
Hearts are broken, to the good-bye call then comes the pain, when the tears
do fall.
What has happened, to the loved filled hall? No one is there, but the tears still fall.

Memories

Remember the first of the year?
Not so far back, so very clear.

near;
Is only a memory that you can hold dear.

After midnight
the thought I so desperately avoid
through the day
comes to me and
robs me of my sleep
the fears of growing up
the fears and doubts that I see my future holds
drive me to insecurity
Only yesterday I was free, freer than I believed Yet then all I could think of
was growing up
and how wonderful it would be.

Now, now that I'm almost there
I don't want to be
And I fear a deeply Responsibility seems like
such a dirty word
and yet everyday
it's reality bombards me
my future is so uncertain and I feel so inept
and powerless to my own fate
But now there is to be soon
no help or guidance
I am to be the one I answer to
And I relentlessly question
my own ability and strength to do so.

Sophomore Style

Sophomores were faced with many difficult challenges in their first year at Arcadia High. But they managed- from surviving through registration to finding out where they belonged in the new school. They quickly discovered that studying was necessary to achieve good grades. Adding to their pressures was the fact that they were the first class to be under the new graduation requirements. It put a greater stress on academic courses which included an extra year of science, mandatory to graduate. Most, however found this extra addition to be of no real problem as there were other activities to balance out this hard schedule. Sophomores looked forward to getting their licenses as it would provide them with a chance to be more independent. Sophomores tackled their new phase of life with a unique style all their own.

Junior Style

What was a junior? Who were these students and where did they fit in at Arcadia High? Juniors were the middle link, who with their style, provided balance between the graduating seniors and the inexperienced sophomores. Faced with many new experiences and responsibilities, they developed new maturity as well as confidence. With driving privileges, heavy academic loads, and other extra-curricular activities, juniors also had the difficult task of finding time just to relax. "With the pressures of five solids I feel like screaming sometimes," said junior Sharon Lee. But with the help of family and friends, juniors not only got through their work but also managed to lead active social lives. The Junior life was one full of new found responsibilities and everyday fun.

BE A LITTER
HELPFUL

Senior Style

Wow! Can we really be seniors? After 13 years of schooling, from kindergarten to high school, we had looked forward to the senior year. We began to feel like seniors in the summer as we took our portraits and registered for our classes. In September we began our last year of mandatory schooling. As we look back we can remember Friday night football games, parties, and the good times spent with our friends. Little things such as an inside joke or a special moment will always remind us of this year. As December rolled around so did the good times. The Chandalier ball, holiday assembly, vacation and Christmas spirit all made life a little more enjoyable. Those early months also brought with them SAT's and college applications. They forced us to think about our future and what we wanted for ourselves. During February many of us attended the Valentine's Dance which was held on a boat that cruised the Long Beach harbor. For some it was a romantic evening and for others a great time spent with close friends. As the weather grew warmer, Senioritis began to take full effect. Sunny days meant beach trips, and often students went to Palm Springs or the beach on weekends. Spring break was spent in many different ways including trips to the coast, skiing, or just relaxing. The Senior Prom was held at the Anaheim Marriot and was a great success! As the year winded down, seniors prepared themselves to face the world. Those last few events such as Baccaluareate, Graduation, and Grad Night were all exciting and filled with unforgetable memories. Laughing, crying, and just holding on to friends was a part of those last days. Although we will grow older, we will always remember the unique year of 1985-one filled with special friends, good times, and memories to last a life time.

Senior Memories

Do Your remember?

the morning when all the lunch tables were stacked in a pyramid in the rally court? ... Chris Ballmer being announced as Apache Joe at the first pep assembly? ... when Andrea Martinet became a Pasadena Tournament of Roses Princess? ... the rats and mice that were let loose at the homecoming assembly? ... when crickets jumped through the senior class section? ... when Mr. Brinn, Mr. White, and Mr. Payne got cream pies thrown in their faces? ... posing for the senior class picture on the library lawn? ... the parachute man who jumped from the sky onto our football field? ... when Valerie Fauria and Rick Harris were crowned Homecoming King and Queen? ... the thrill of winning our Homecoming game? ... how Martha Torres, Vikki Condit, Colleen Hanrahan, and Doreen Bohn made the Arcadia Court? ... when we ordered our caps and gowns? ... voting on our favorite graduation announcement? ... the multi-media presentation called "The Desperado"? ... the anticipation for acceptance to a college? ... the dance marathon? ... when we spent a day designing our Senior Squares? ... the excitement of graduation and grad night? ... all those special times we shared as seniors at Arcadia High?

How EMBARRASSING !

First your face reddens, warmth overcomes your body, you start laughing an uncomfortable laugh, and you can't believe you did such a stupid thing; you're embarrassed. Embarrassment is a feeling that everyone experiences at some time. Some honest seniors agreed to share their most embarrassing moments.

My sophomore year, I was running down the hall in a dress, both of my shoes flew off my feet, past three laughing Senior guys. - Laura Beiswenger

I got in an accident, right after school, on Campus Drive. - Ken Miller

I was tardy to Mr. Wilks class, when I walked in, I slipped and my books went everywhere. - Bonnie Foster

I dropped by books, out of my locker, on a sophomore's head. - Paul Amato

When I was a junior, I sang at the Christmas Assembly with a sore throat. - Julie Elmore

Two cop cars stopped me with their lights and sirens blaring for jaywalking in front of In-N-Out - Ciran Hadjian

I asked 18 girls to the Homecoming dance, none could go. I winded up watching Footloose at home. - Chris Konzelman

I took a Geometry test and forgot to turn it in. - Joni Eu

I had my license 3 days when I parked my huge car in a small spot at In-N-Out. It got stuck. - Laurie Whipple

I was at the Homecoming dance with no date. - Laura Vanlandingham

My junior year I got a ticket for speeding, in the student parking lot. It was before school and the cop followed me in. - Mike Fry

My car stalled on New Years Eve on the parade route. - Nancy Bensen

I ran out of gas in the student parking lot. - Yosuf Maiwandi

When I took my driving test, I hit a cat. - Andrea Giovanazzi.

I drove up the off-ramp of the 210 freeway. - Valerie Fauria

As a sophomore, my tall flag skirt fell off during a Friday night half-time show. - Vikki Condit

In P.E. my junior year, I dove off the high dive and lost my suit half way down. - Bill Shaw

Being a senior in a class full of sophomores. - Gail Wilm

All of tenth grade. - George Gubbins

During my junior year I spilled punch on Dr. Cordano at a House of Representatives meeting. - Tiffany Gilweit

My pants got caught on something when I was getting out of a van. The whole back of my pants ripped. - Leslie Lukesh

When I was a junior, I crashed my car into a tree on the night of the Valentines dance. - Mike Rinn

On the first night of the 1984 May Show, I fell down on stage. - Karla Swarens

I was running down the hall this year, trying to sneak up on a friend, when I ran into a pole. - Kevin Snell

Ernie Ross and Wendy Asher have a confrontation in the rally court. Wendy is flustered when she can't remember where she put her hall pass.

The little kids are brought out in Stacy Caputo, David Firestone, Anne Sciarra, Patty Smaldino, and Bruce Bowman when they play dress up for Fifties Day.

Colleen Hanrahan comes to the office to receive a phone call. She was embarrassed because her mother was calling to tell her she forgot her lunch.

In government class, Mr. Onderdonk called me up to his desk. I got up, tripped, and fell on my knees in front of the whole class. - Theresa Samuelson

As Apache Joe, I had to get up in front of the school at the Homecoming Assembly. I asked them to do the wave and no one would. - Chris Ballmer

Everyday at lunch Dan Henriks would sing songs about bananas to me. - Elisabeth Lassanyi

During a football game, I fell flat on my face right in front of the stands. - Roy I

I was taking a final, so the room was dead quiet, my stomach growled and everyone looked at me. - Jennifer Saurenman

My sophomore year I fell off the bus, hit my head and my skirt flew up. - Yolanda Spears

I was running to class, when I slipped in a puddle. - Michelle Scarminach

I was on a double date, we were all drinking sodas. We all started laughing and I spit soda on my friend and our dates. - Diane Welch

My black nylons got a run at an Arcadia Court luncheon. - Martha Torres

I cheated on a test and the test I cheated off of was a different test. - David Firestone

Asking people, that I don't know, what their most embarrassing moment was. - Michelle Franzen

I got caught cheating on math test while Dr. Cordano was in the room. - Kevin Estrada

When John Seymour chased me down the hall and I fell and riped my pants. - Wendy Freeman

My most embarrassing moment was during band and everyone was hopping the fence and I tried too and my shorts ripped up to the waist. - Rick Johnson

I was talking to this guy in class and the rubberband on my braces flicked off and smacked him on the face. - Francine Dumapias

Seniors: Then And Now

Many times a student may hear their parents say, "If only things were the same as when I was going to high school." Well, how different is living today, in 1985, compared to thirty years ago in 1955? Styles in clothing are continuously changing. The different apparels vary as much as the people do, and what is "in" one season may be "out" the next. Even though there is a great amount of fluxuation with the different styles, it seems that it rotates in one large cycle. Many of the clothes that were popular in the fifties that went "out" and are now coming back "in". Angora sweaters, Peter Pan collars, full skirts, bobby socks, and saddle shoes were common outfits in the fifties for girls. Boys, for the most part, dressed conservatively with sweaters, rolled up blue jeans, and penny loafers. Although clothes have changed, people can still see some of the styles from the fifties. Dancing was also a favorite and people boogied the jitterbug, fox trot, and bunny hop. The performers best liked were Elvis Presley, Chuck Berry, Little Richard, and Buddy Holly. During the late fifties Rock and Roll started to come alive. The Korean War was also taking place during the fifties and many high school boys accepted the draft as a fact of life. Most of the high school girls planned to get married and raise a family. Although 30 years have gone by and we are now more industrialized and modern, many of our tastes have remained the same. Clothes and music today are very similiar to that of the fifties and students enjoy the influence that this era has made upon their lives.

A Special Helper

A very active teacher at the A.H.S. is Mrs. Carol McVay. She is a resource specialist and teaches several different subjects to students having problems in certain areas of study. These include science, English, history and math, therefore, making her a special kind of teacher.

Mrs. McVay is a third-generation Pasadenian. She attended Pasadena High School, P.C.C., and finally U.C.L.A., where she obtained her degree in Psychology/Education. She now lives in Arcadia with her husband and two children.

Mrs. McVay has taught at A.H.S. for 6 years and has been an active sponsor of the Kiowas Club. She says "I love what I am doing!" During her free time, she likes to mold pottery and play the flute. During the summer months, when she isn't teaching, she spends her time with her husband and children in the North Cascades in the state of Washington. She loves nature and the outdoor-life but still looks forward to "a steak dinner and a glass of wine" at the end of the day.

Mrs. McVay is indeed a talented and inspiring woman who puts a lot of time and effort into her work. Her advice to students is to "function from the basis of self-esteem" and always have "short-term and long-term goals".

Standing proudly, Mr. Johnson explains to two of his students, Cheryl Bannister and Tammy Sivas, some of the tricks of Trigonometry.

With a few minutes to spare, Mrs. Guy takes time to pick out a book from the library.

Surrounding Coach Freberg are a few of his fine Varsity Volleyball players, Leslie Wohlford, Penny Parker, Tammy Sivas, Mary Ann Harmon and Shawn Robertson, who let him know that he is "One of a kind."

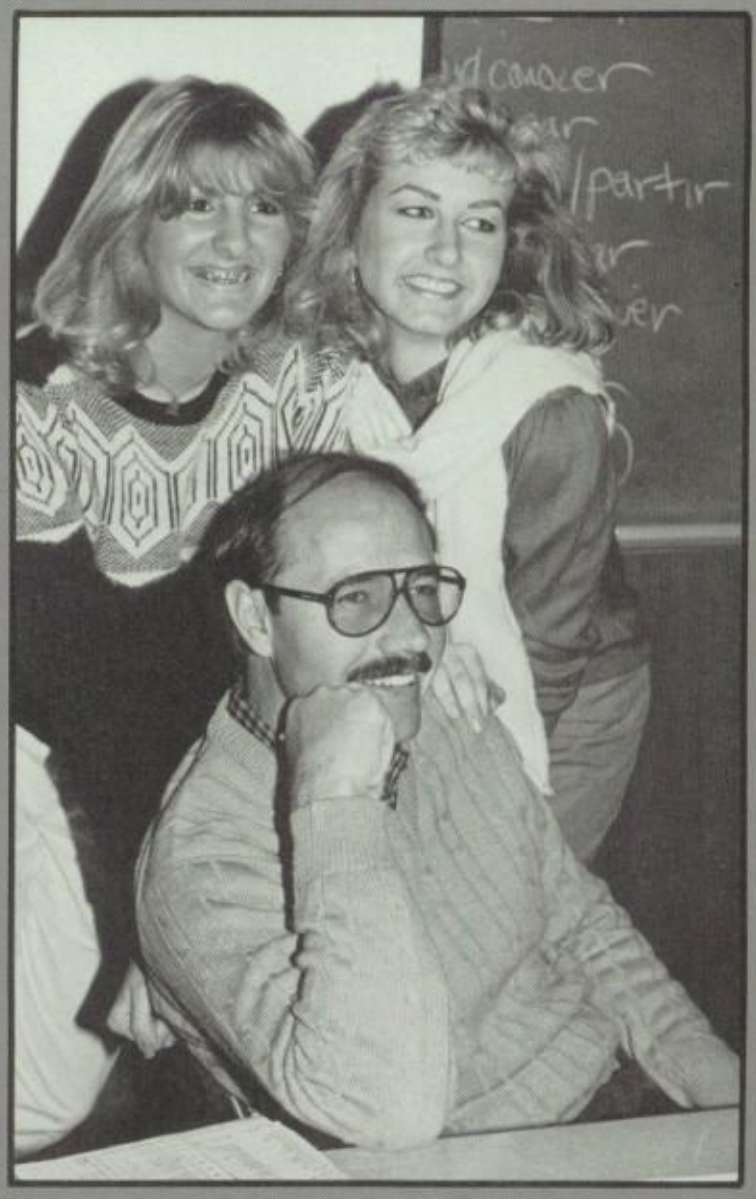
Un Buen Amigo

One of the most popular Spanish teachers at Arcadia High School is Mr. Les Brown. He has been teaching here for 10 years. Although his years have been spent teaching mostly Spanish, he has previously taught English classes for 2 years and history subjects off and on for 7 years.

His interest in Spanish began in high school. These interests were pursued at Brigham Young University and later he obtained his teaching credential at Cal State L.A. After graduating from college, Mr. Brown spent 2 years in South America, and it was from this experience that he became fluent in the Spanish language.

Mr. Brown enjoys teaching at Arcadia for several reasons. He feels that in teaching a subject that is an academic elective, he is able to work with highly motivated students. Aside from teaching Spanish, Mr. Brown has various outside interests. He loves the outdoors, traveling, and spending time with his wife and three children. As a result of his love for travel Mr. Brown has sponsored the backpacking club for 10 years and the AFS club for 5.

All in all, Mr. Brown takes life as it comes to him. Mr. Brown stated that he, "tries to have one good experience a day," and he believes that this is a successful way to approach life in any culture.



Although grading papers on her lunch break, Mrs. Larson Mc Quaid still continues to have a cheerful, smiling face.

Showing his enthusiasm and school spirit, Mr. Dennison displays his cardinal red and gold tie.

No matter where he goes, Coach Dohling can always count on his flock of admirer's right behind him.

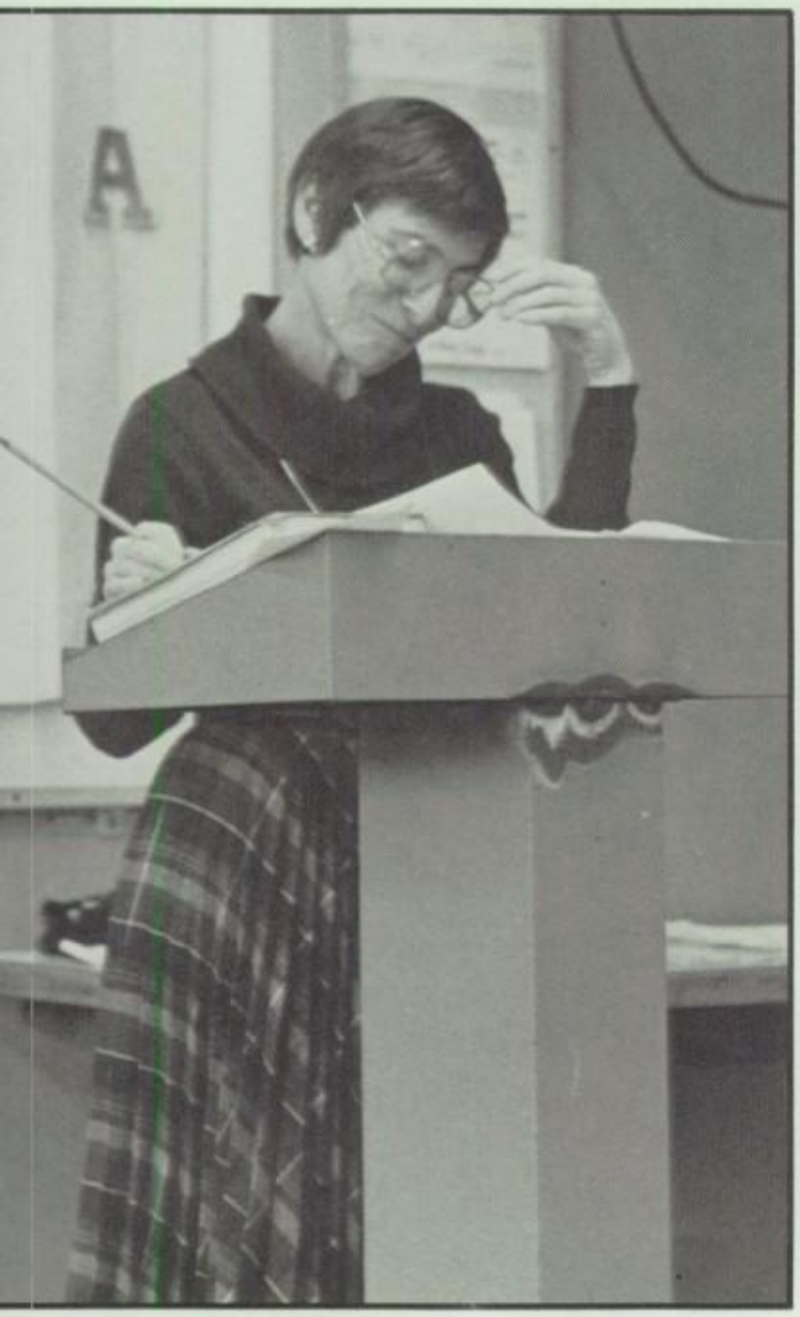
Mr. Involvement

A caring and dedicated English teacher, Mr. Gex, has been teaching at Arcadia High School for 32 years. He attended L.A. State, University of North Western, and received his degrees at San Fransisco State. Mr. Gex finds teaching very worthwhile for he is one who really enjoys kids. He feels the students at Arcadia High are "happy" and "optimistic." Outside school, he has a variety of interests such as writing, getting involved in the theater, playing golf, sailing, and going to the beach. Some of the most memorable and happy moments in his life have been when he took a group of students to Europe. He expresses, "I have my own special feelings of Europe and enjoy very much to share that with them and have them experience that same feeling."



(Opposing Page): After the day's assignment, Mrs. Voznick spends a little time laughing with a student. A good sense of humor helped students relate to their teachers.

At the podium, Mrs. Driver muses over student's papers as she corrects them. She was known as one of the hardest and best English teachers.

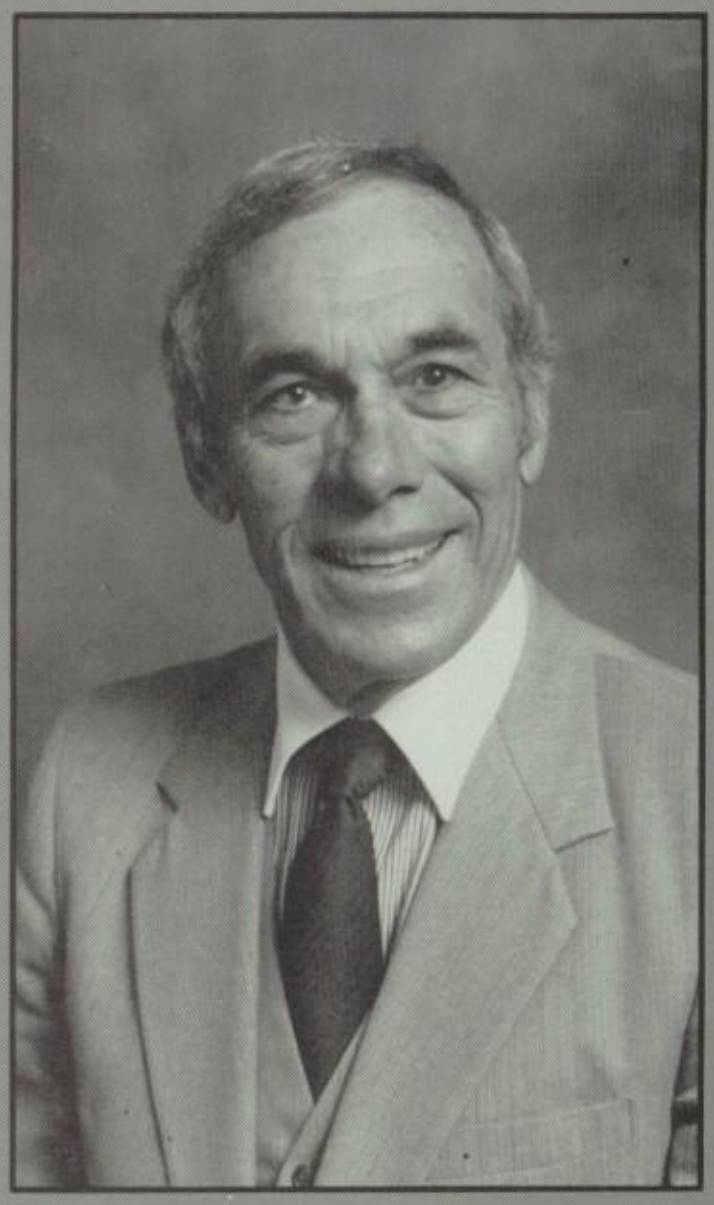
Looking his best, Mr. Stapleton reviews some facts about Chemistry. His dedication for the subject led to many interesting lectures.

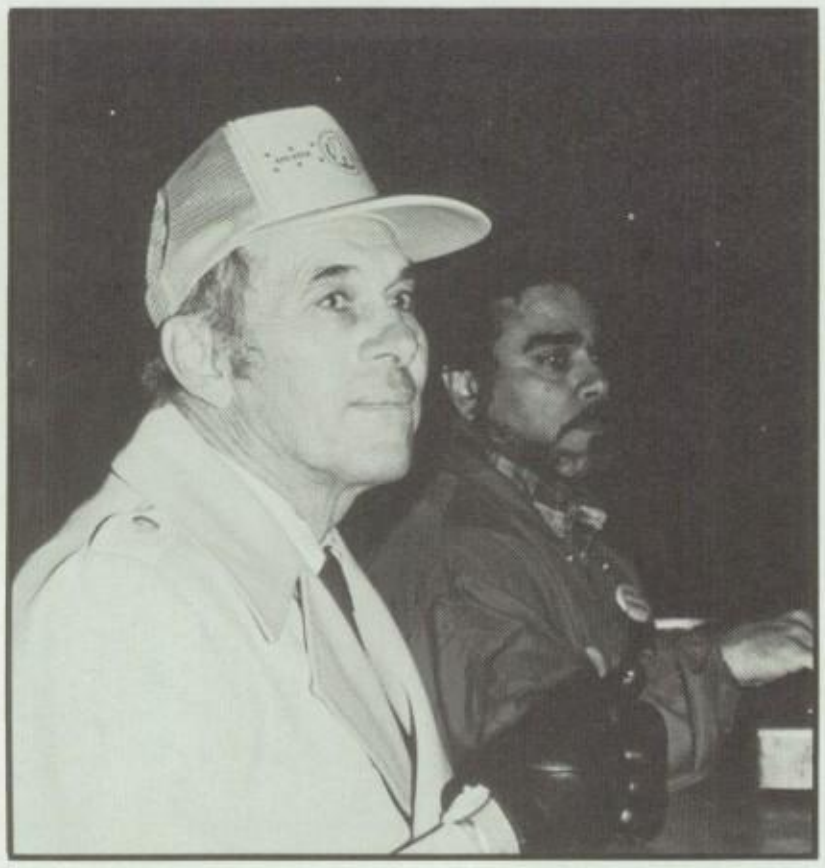
Students need full concentration in order to understand Chemistry due to Mr. Stapleton's unusual attire on Albert Einstein's birthday on March 14.

A Dedicated Apache

After 21 years of dedication and hard work as the principal of A.H.S., Dr. Richard Cordano will be retiring this year. In 1964, when he first took his position he, "was caught up in the spirit of Arcadia as a community from the very first day!" He worked very hard and put forth all his energy and time into maintaining A.H.S. as a fine and reputable learning institution. He has seen many changes at A.H.S. in the past years; the building of the school library; the enlargement of the gym; and the addition of the swimming pool and auto/electronic shops. Dr. Cordano has played an important part in all of these changes. He has given so much to the school and it is on a very sad note that we see him leave. Dr. Cordano says he does not have any immediate plans upon retirement, however he would like to teach, perhaps in the field of education. As for A.H.S., he will always have a sentimental attachment. "I love this school. I've been just so fortunate to have spent my career here."

On behalf of the students, staff and the administration of A.H.S., the Yearbook Staff would like to thank Dr. Richard Cordano and wish him the very best in all his personal endeavors and hopes in the future.





Dr. Cordano has both A.H.S. and Olympic spirit. Despite the cold weather, he attends all football games which is why he's No. 1 with us.

Tiffany Grohs is the A.H.S. student representative to the Board of Education. She attended all Monday night board meetings and was the liason between the students and the school board.

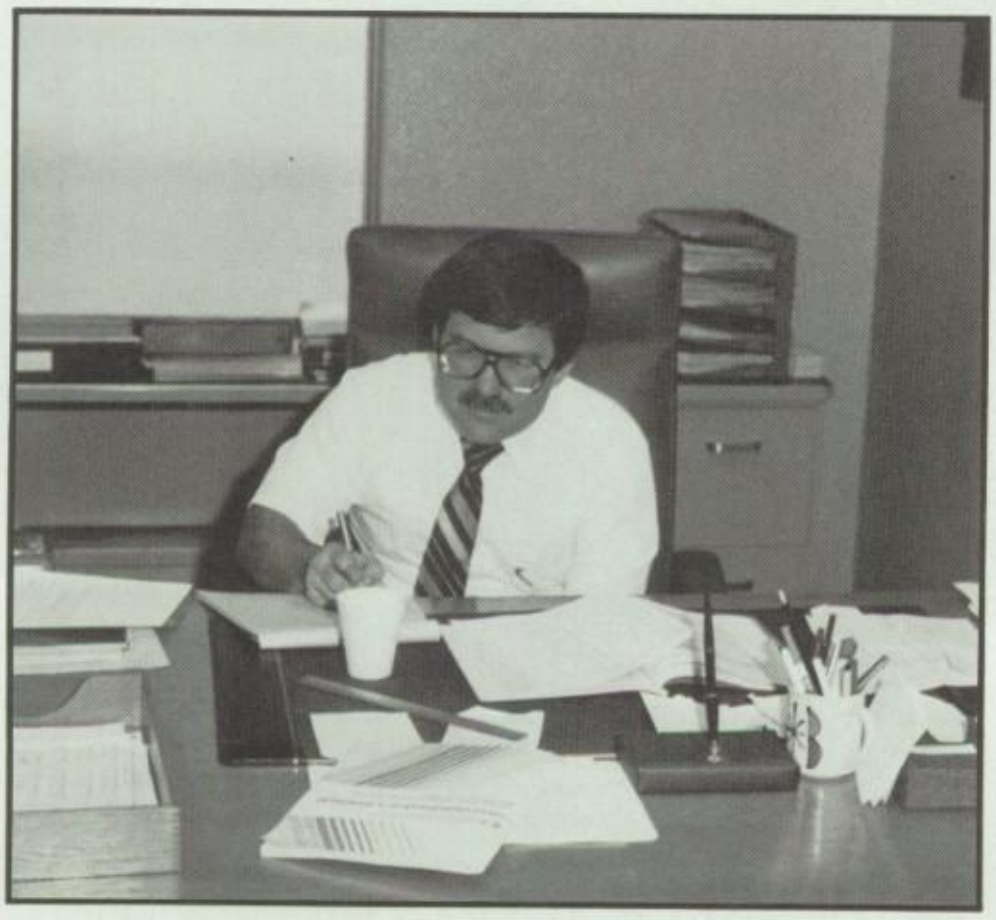
Superintendent, Mr. Elbert Souders has been a dedicated member of the district for over 25 years. He began as Arcadia High school's Principal and then moved up to Assistant Superintendent. This upcoming June will be Mr. Souder's third year as Superintendent and will also mark his retirement. He lives happily with his wife, Rene, and has two sons who are both married.

Helping Hands

Mr. White, Dr. Johnson, and Mr. Payne were a very important force behind the school's ability to function properly. They devoted much of their time and effort to supervising the students and their activities. They were also in charge of disciplinary actions as well as class schedules. Their direct relations out on the campus with students made them well-known and all three were an important part of the school administration.

A.H.S. counselors, Mr. Joe Fox, Mr. John Thompson, Mrs. Margaret Gale, Mr. Max Cramer and Mr. Bill Cieadlo, all played very important roles in the lives of many student. They were there to inform, to make class changes, and most of all, to guide and counsel. As seniors faced the mass confusion of applying to colleges and obtained recommendation, these 5 dedicated people were there to assist.

Speech Therapist, Rita Frantz, also assisted students with special speech problems and Mrs. Kathy Coffman and Mrs. Patt Richards ran the library and helped students obtain books and research information. Cheryl McPherson was in charge of the Audio-Visual Center.



Assistant Principal in charge of activities and attendance Mr. Thomas Payne

Assistant Principal in Charge of curriculum Dr. Alan Johnson.

Women At Work

For A.H.S. to run smoothly it takes a lot of time, organization, cooperation, and neatness. The secretaries and receptionists at the main office, student store, and textbook room, all worked hard to make sure things went properly. They answered phones, sent out letters and transcripts, made appointments, monitered the student funds, and much more. They spent many long hours tackeling these jobs and their hard work was greatly appreciated by all.

If you've ever been walking down a hallway and heard that familiar saying, "Where's your hall pass?", you would be sure to have come face to face with a Campus Security guard. These proctors consist of Ernie Ross, Pat Zuala, Marlene Stam and Sherman Walgren. They can be seen at various locations and times throughout the schoolday. Their duties range from checking I.D.'s at lunchtime to keeping the students under control. They are well liked by the student body and are a contributing factor to the well being of the school. "I've been to a lot of other high schools and A.H.S. is by far the best around." states Ernie Ross.

In A.P. English, Mrs. High makes great demands of her students in order to help them prepare for the A.P. Exam.

Mr. Ward takes a break from looking over a student's draftings. Drafting is a very popular class amongst students, and also fulfills the practical arts requirement.

Mrs. Kinikin teaches many English classes including Literary Criticism, World Poetry, and Writing Themes. Here, she discusses the requirements for one of her classes on the first day of the quarter.

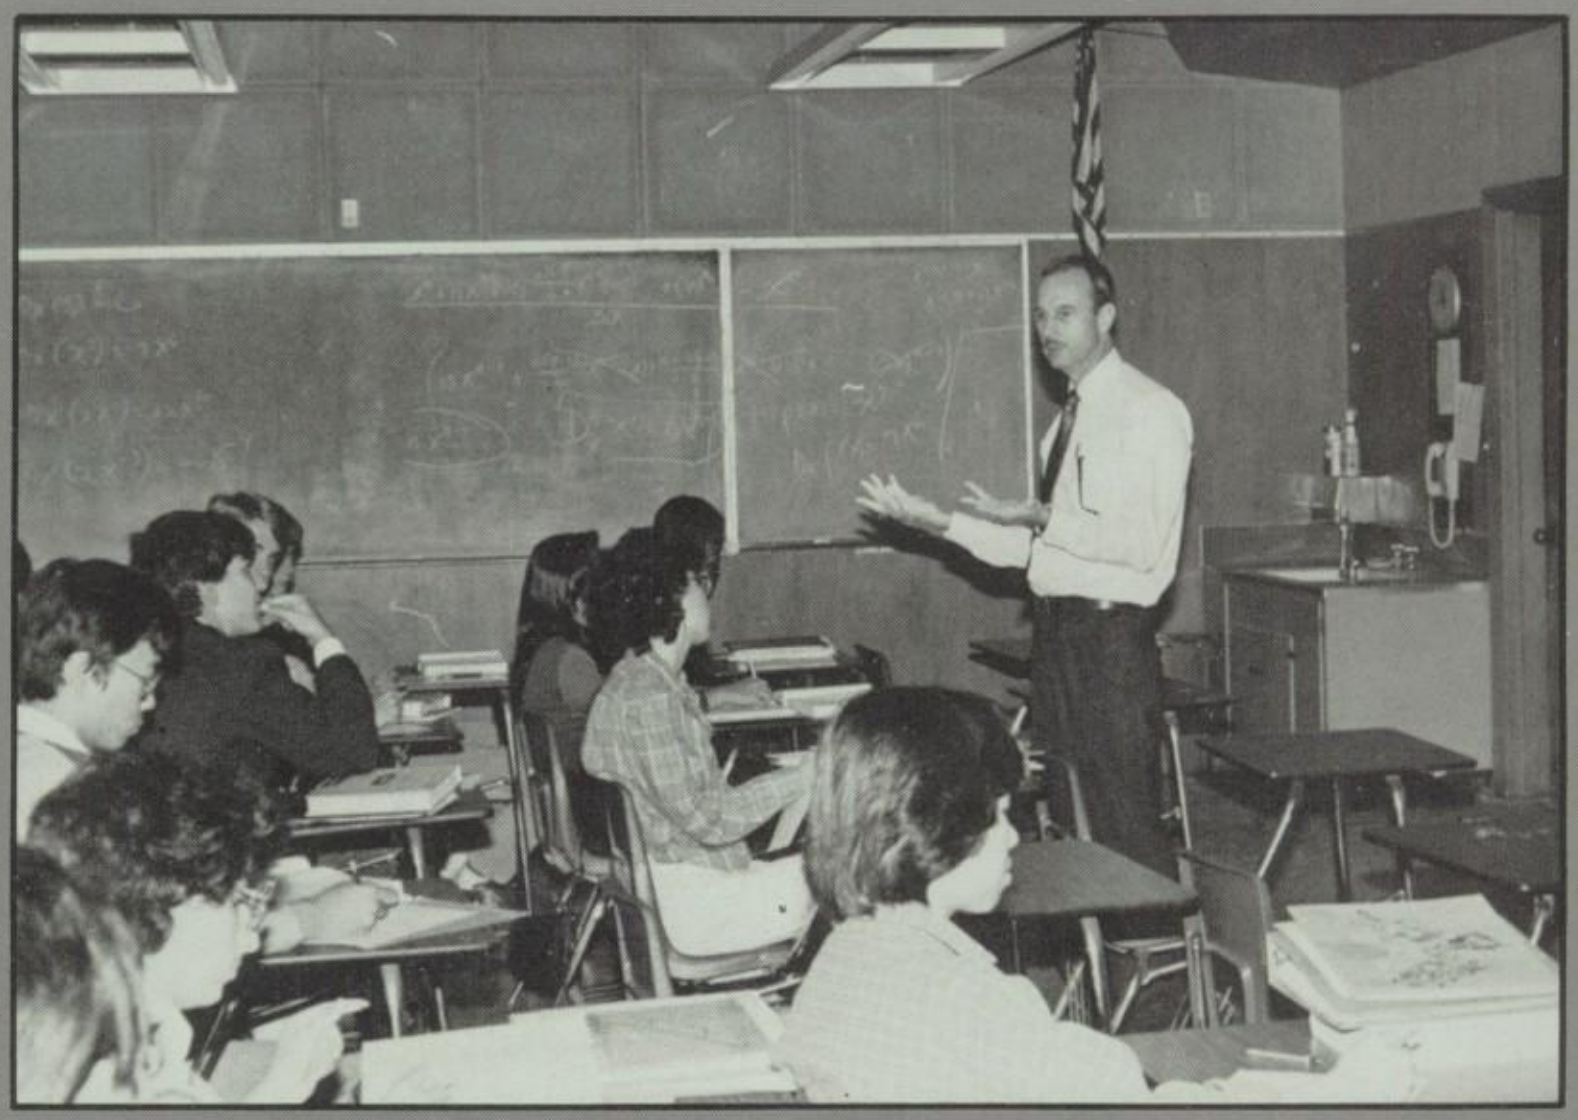
Ms. Druker instructs her class to read aloud together from the French book. Pronounciation is of key importance in French.

Expanding Horizons

To expand their language background, fascinating as well as challenging courses were taken by a majority of students. The three languages offered were Spanish, French, and German, and many students agreed that they were an important aspect of one's education. "Spanish has given me the chance to learn another language and also about the culture of Latin American countries," commented Amy Mathisen. Through A.F.S. and other student-abroad programs, some were able to use their language skills in far and exotic places. "It's a great feeling to be able to communicate with people who speak a foreign language," stated Theresa Samuelson, who spent her summer in Columbia. All in all, the foreign languages were popular courses offered at Arcadia High and were taken by students with an interest in language and culture.

Spanish is not only learning the language but geography as well. Here, Ms. Parker points to a map of Spain and Portugal for her class.

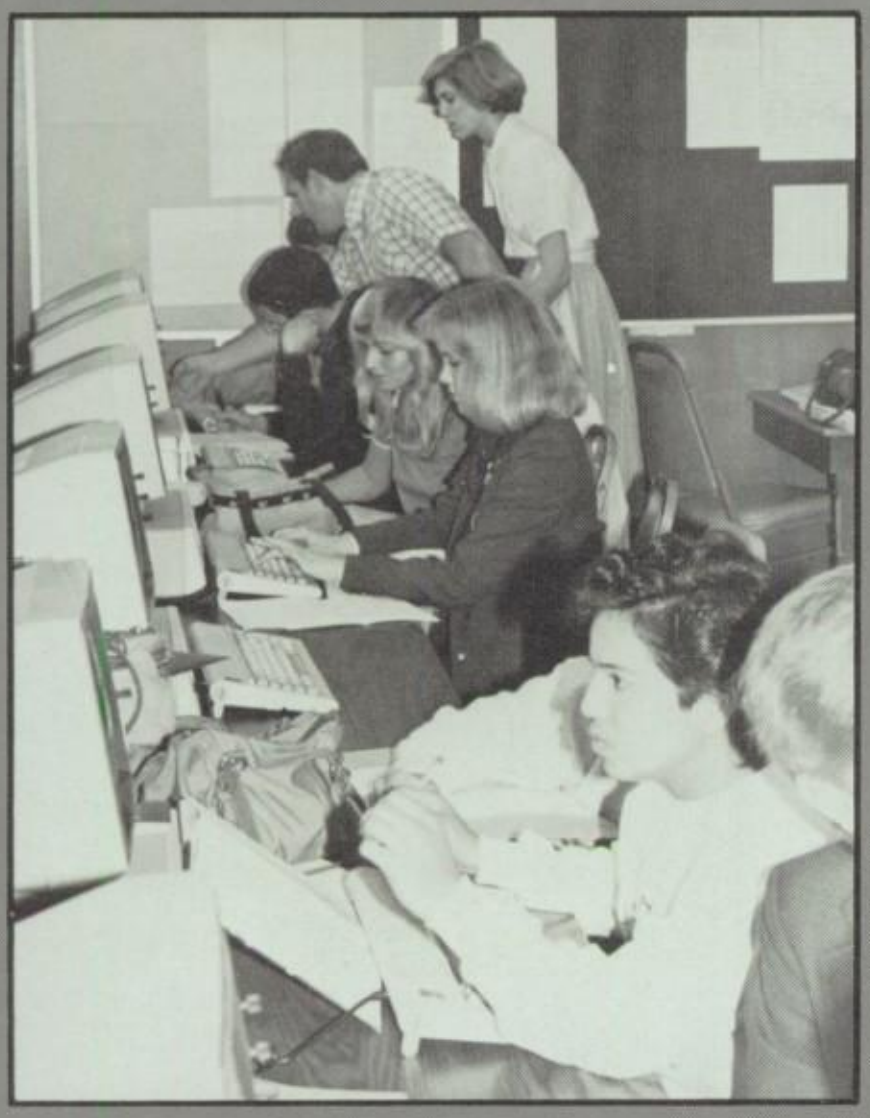
Ms. Giles smiles as she sets up a display for her students to draw using charcoal. She likes creativity and originality in her students work.

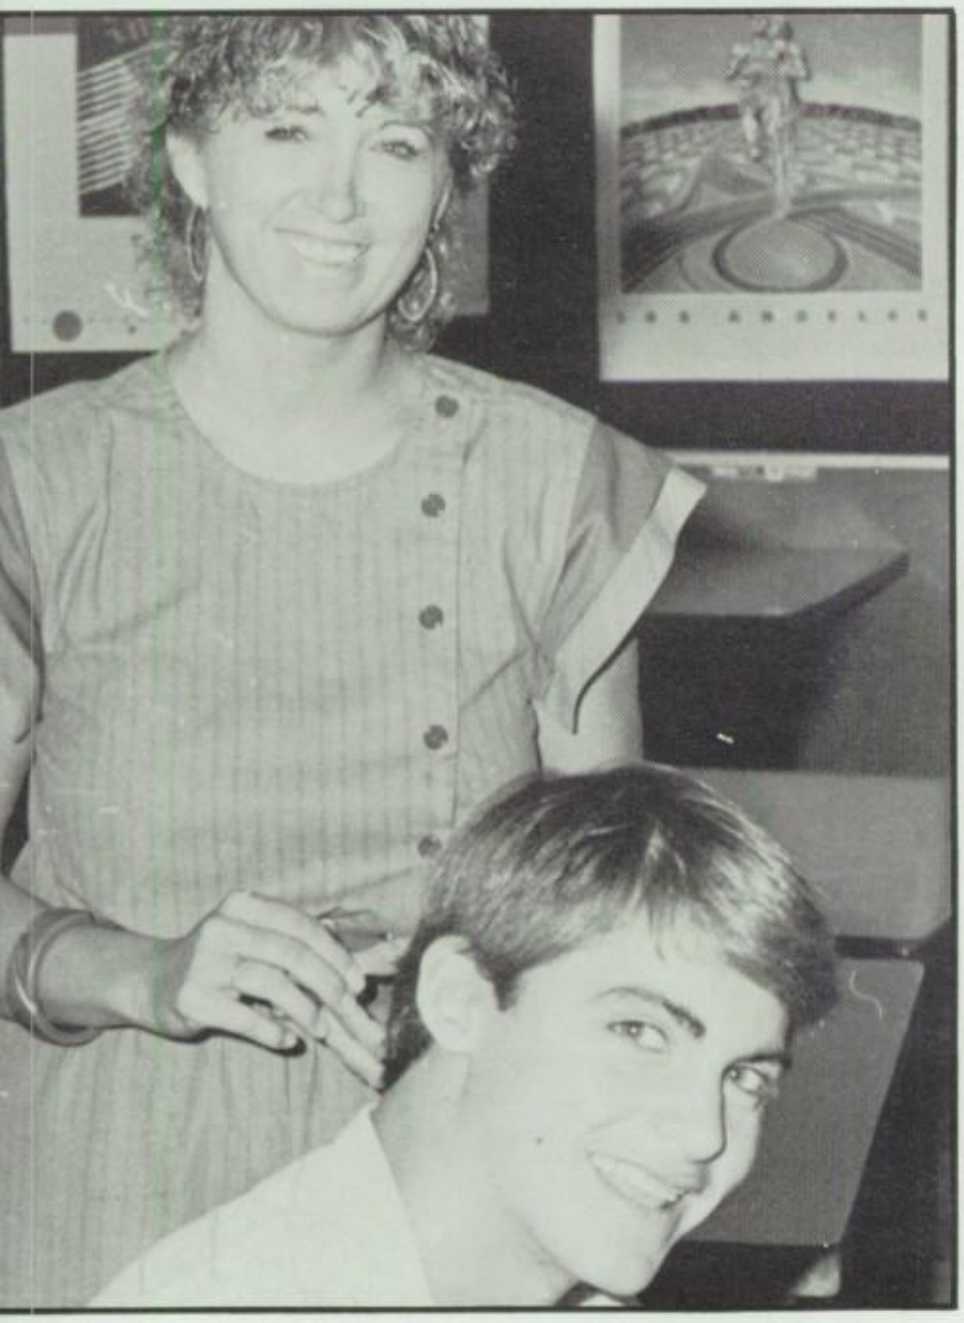


A.P. Calculus can often be a very confusing subject. Mr. Rowe tries to illustrate a certain point about a mathematical function.

A computer print-out is an important aspect in the evaluation of a student's progress. Here, Mr. Zabel carefully checks his students' work.

For those interested in going into business, Business Math is a very useful class. Ms. Cullison teaches calculations used in everyday business.





Developing Technology

The A.P. Computer Science class taught students the many applications of computers. The main goal of the course was to write programs using algoriths, in order to solve problems. "It was a challenging course and provided useful experience with using computers." said Rob Bhatt. The A.P. Computer Science class also prepared students for the A.P. Computer Exam. This exam, taken in May, could enable those with high scores to receive college credit.

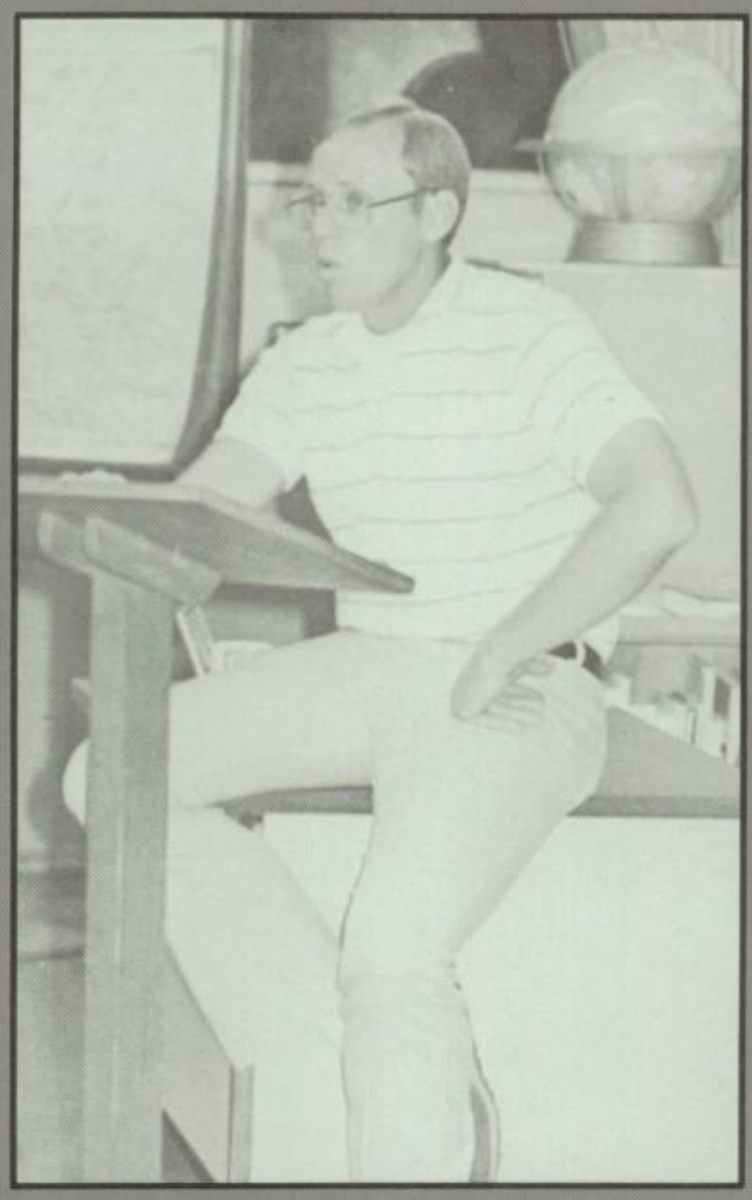
The Data processing and Word processing classes were also increasingly popular. Mr. Zabel emphasized that the courses could help students at a job in the business world. He also commented that he enjoyed teaching the classes because the students were genuinely interested. Familiarity and knowledge gained by taking these courses could also help students when searching for jobs after school.

Another area of technology, more commonly known, was math. The increase in the math requirement for graduation and for acceptance to many colleges reflected the increase in the importance of this subject. The Math Department was very well prepared to take on the challenge of meeting the student's needs. Tom Tsai, a Calculus student commented, "Math is the basic principle to many of the careers that will be available in the future."

The different concepts of technology; Math, Computer Science, Data and Word processing, were an important part of our education and also interesting and informative subjects that could be taken during high school.

Ms. King ponders a question asked by her Algebra 2 class aide, Tammy Kitty. Teachers and their aides worked as a team to help benefit the class.

Programming is often a difficult aspect of learning the concepts of computers. Mr. Zabel works individually with students to clarify any problems.

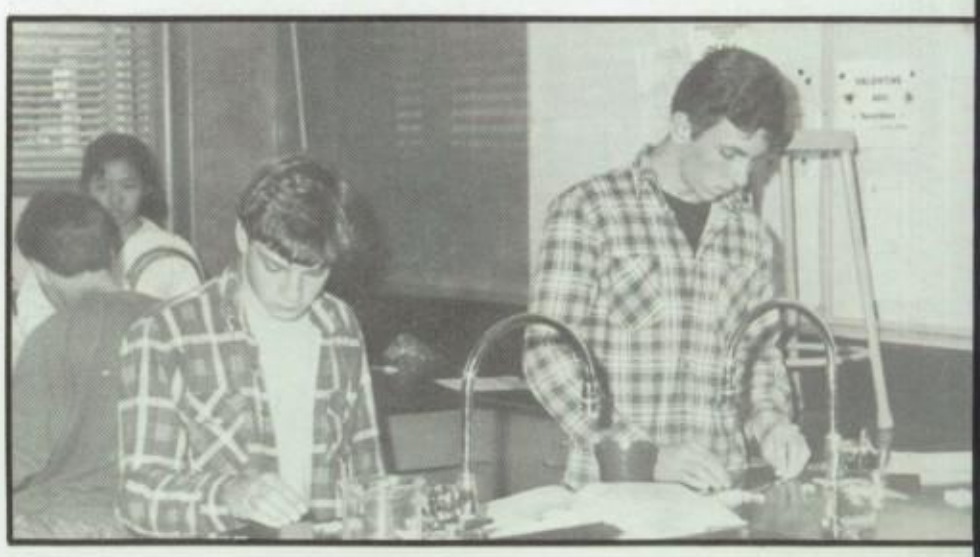


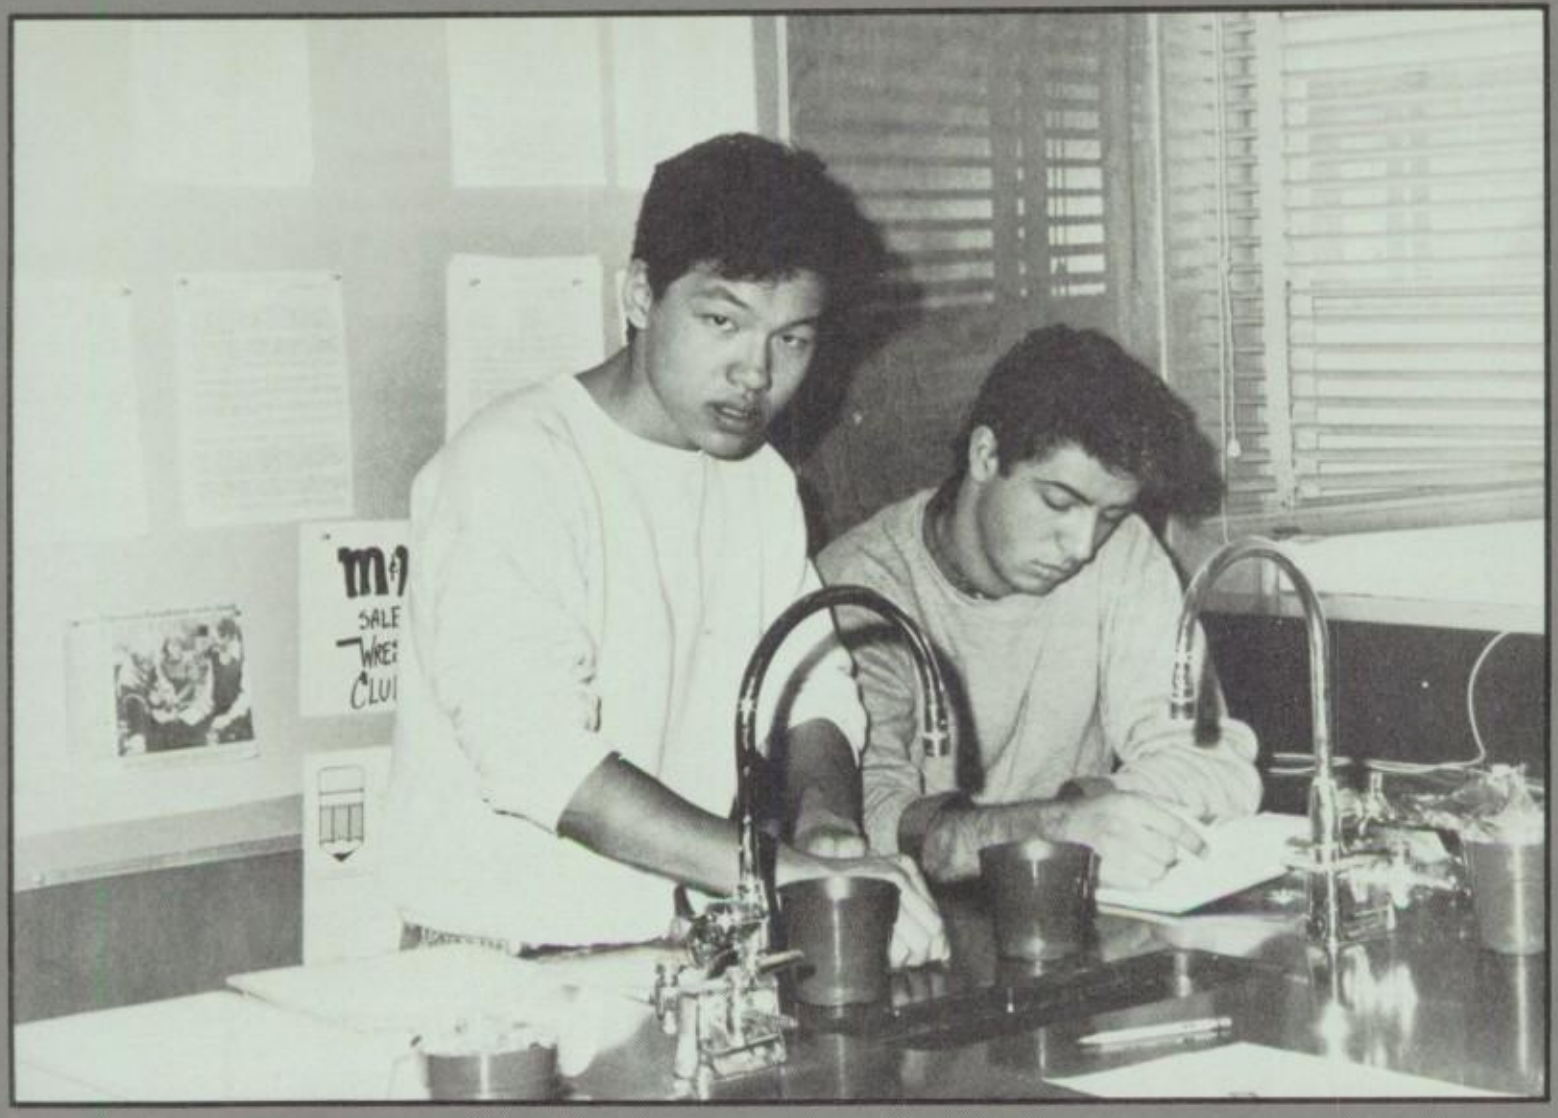
Physics is a difficult class for many students. Mr. Fountain tries to simplify it through visual demonstrations.

Mr. Gordon's discussion on U.S. geography is well received by his students. His lectures are interesting as well as informative.

Mr. Shwab demonstrates a lab experiment about to be performed.

Students George Tudor and Doug Schofhauser count beans as part of a lab experiment. The lab assignment was a study on genetics.





The World Of Science

Chemistry, Physics, and Human Physiology were just several of the many science courses offered at A.H.S. They enlightened students by encouraging them to be more aware of their surroundings; Our earth, elements, animals and space were just a few of the subjects explored. These classes helped us to learn about the theory of the formation of the earth, our existence and many other scientific wonders. The many lab assignments and experiments allowed students to learn about science through first-hand experience. The speed of moving objects when dropped from different levels of height and the forces between like and unlike magnetic poles were just two of the numerous experiments performed by students. Mr. Fountain once explained science as, "an attempt to understand and work constructively with the universe." And, at Arcadia High, through the diverse and interesting courses offered, we were able to make that attempt.

Biology involves many first-hand lab experiments. Here, Michael Long and Nick Scheckel study the instructions in their text before they begin.

Kim Bryan and Oskar Vonheydenreich carefully listen to instructions as they prepare for an experiment using beans.

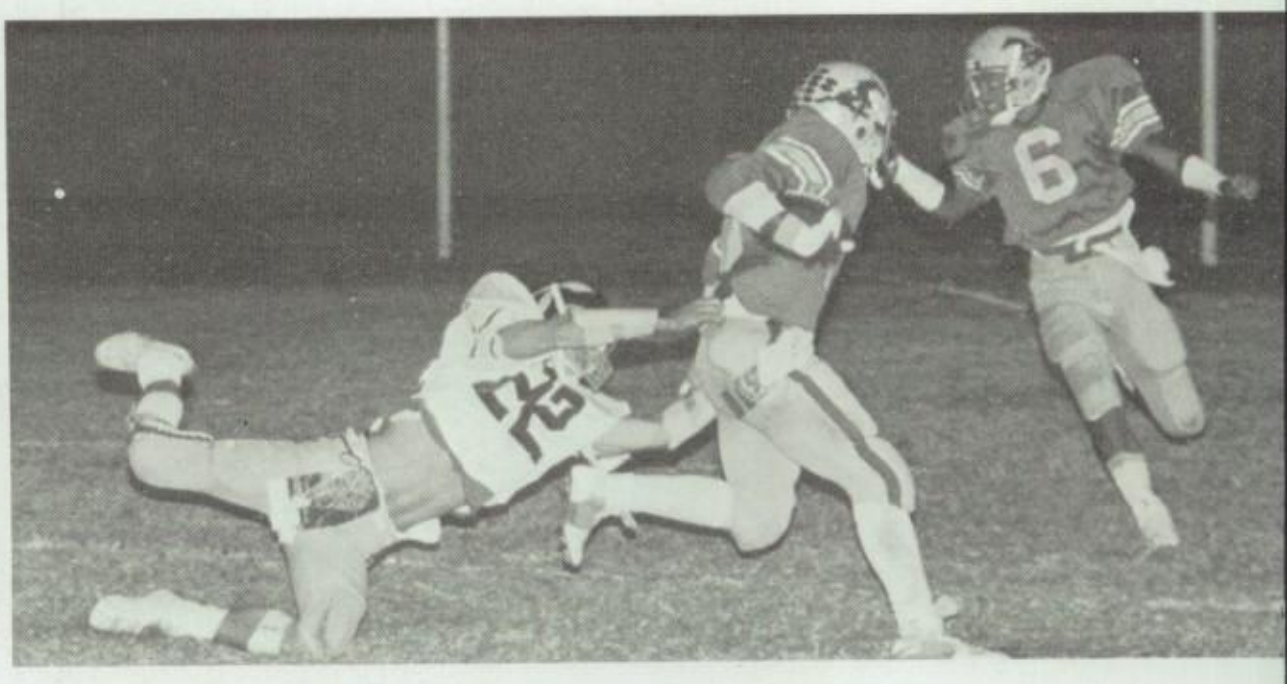
Second year starter, Tony Werbelow, kept the Apache offense alive. As well as being a good passer, Werbelow demonstrates his excellent running ability.

Skill and concentration are necessary qualities in a kicker. H.K. Hedlund demonstrates his ability as he starts off the third quarter against Pasadena.

As a key running back for the Apaches, Mike Sandlin strives for the goal line against Glendale.



A good defensive back must have skill and agility. These qualities are demonstrated by Chip Brehmer in the game against Muir.

Pride

Pride was a feeling that the members of the Varsity football team had common. Rodger Groves stated, "What really counts is that we had fun and we know we gave it our best." Arcadia entered league play with a record of 0-5. This pre-league record didn't do justice to the Apaches who remained a tough opponent in the Pacific league.

The Apaches demonstrated their pride by sticking together as a team. Despite injuries on both offense and defense, they were able to pull through. Starting quarterback Tony Verbelow was struck with injuries which kept him out of uniform for three games. His replacement, Brad Scott, did an excellent job for Arcadia in his first experience in high school football.

Both offensively and defensively, the Apaches were able to put it together and defeat Glendale and Crescenta Valley on Arcadia's home turf. Both games were won by a large margin and as John Huerta remarked, "were well deserved."

The Varsity team wound up the season with a record of 2-8. Nothing but pride can be felt by this team who pulled together and upheld the Apache tradition as being a tough competitor.

Rising Talent

The Apache Junior Varsity and Sophomore football teams had a lot of talent, Both teams had fairly successful seasons and proved to be tough competitors.

The Junior Varsity team finished the season with a record of 3-4. Steve Mazone was quoted, "J.V. started out pretty shaky at first, but it came around in the middle of the season." Many members of the J.V. squad played Sophomore football last year and were able to contribute their experience to this year's team. Frequently the Varsity team called upon J.V. players to play in the Friday night games. The Junior Varsity team was coached by the Varsity coaches who used their players interchangeably.

The Sophomore team gave it their best shot throughout the season. They didn't win many of their games, but the skills and experience that they gained were more important. Sophomore Tom Greep stated, "Playing on the Sophomore team this year was a good experience and I learned a lot."

The J.V. and Sophomore teams showed rising talent this year and had good learning experiences. Steve Provenzano remarked, "J.V. had a great year. We learned a lot, and should be well experienced for next year."

In Arcadia's first game against Edison, they started off with an explosive offense, demonstrated by Chris McCarn. McCarn also contributed his talents to the Varsity team.

As a utility player for the Sophomore team, Tom Greep attempts a drive against Temple City.

Sophomore running back, Tony DeNino, sprints toward an Apache first down against Glendale.

Quarterback Brad Scott shows his skill as a runner, behind a tough offensive line.

As he continues a steady stride, David Dirken prepares to finish his race in the Walnut 5-way meet.

Running strong, Brad Thompson shows the strength, both mental and physical, required in a successful long distance runner.

Running Strong

The 1984 Cross Country Team had an exciting season. The team was in the thick of the fights for League championship until the very end. Overall, they had a 12-6 league record.

The Boy's Varsity team ended the season in fourth place. They were competitive throughout the season and most of their losses were by a small margin. The team was led by Brad Thompson, Paul DeHaven, and Jim Ratigan, all of whom were successful throughout the season.

The Girl's Varsity team, led by Carole Anne Cordero, Caryn McNamee, and Shellee Smith, had a 1-4 record for the season. They too worked hard and weren't easily defeated.

The Boy's J.V. and Sophomore team had a lot of new talent this year. They were able to gain experience and learn from the other runners.

Coach Speck commented, "We had some bad breaks in the form of illness and injury all at once near the end of things that held us back from achieving all that we could have." It was a learning year for many newcomers. Overall, they were a fine group who worked hard to achieve their goals as runners.

Success

What makes an excellent Volleyball Team? That's a question that the Girl's Varsity Volleyball team proved they had the answer to. With returning starters Tammy Sivas, Leslie Wohlford, and Penny Parker, the girls ended league play undefeated.

The girls were encouraged to attend the summer league as much as possible. This league, taught by Coach Freberg, gave the team a headstart and provided them with the skills essential for good play. Senior Tammy Sivas stated, "We didn't do too many fancy plays but our offense was quick enough to beat the other teams in the Pacific League." Senior Stacey Fabbri who was also a major asset to the Varsity team said, "Our team unity made us successful. We had our problems at the beginning of the season, but when we got over them, we had a lot of fun and played great volleyball." The girls played competitive, hard, volleyball which took them on to CIF. In the end, they lost to Edison in the 3rd round quarter finals after putting up a tough fight.

The Most Valuable Player award was shared by seniors Tammy Sivas and Leslie Wohlford. The Coach's Award went to Kristina Rumph and Shawn Robertson, while Penny Parker received the award for Most Inspirational.

The Girl's J.V. team also had a promising season. Coach Sullivan led the girls in their games against competitive opponents. They worked hard on the skills and components of the game. Many of these girls will be important to the Varsity team next year.

Teamwork Wins

The Apaches girls' tennis team once again dominated the Pacific League as they have for the past seven consecutive years. This success was attributed to the hard work and dedication of the players, and also to the coach, Terry Sonnhalter, who finished off her last girls' tennis season before retiring.

Leading the Apaches was four year varsity member and number one singles player, Rose Tarkanian, who also placed number one in the Pacific League. Her younger sister Jane took the number two position and was also a great asset to the team. When asked about the team overall Rose stated, "Not only did we work well and play hard, but also had alot of fun and that's essential for winning."

Number one doubles team, Anita Lee and Susan May along with singles players Rose and Jane Tarkanian, advanced to individual CIF competition. They, along with the other team members kept up the AHS tradition of outstanding girls tennis and finished with an undefeated season.

J.V. player Tricia Vasquez demonstrates her form as she returns to her Pasadena opponent.

Senior Rose Tarkanian enjoys tennis even off the court.

Friendships and having fun are also enjoyed by J.V. players Ciran Hadjian and Michelle Wilson.

Hard Work

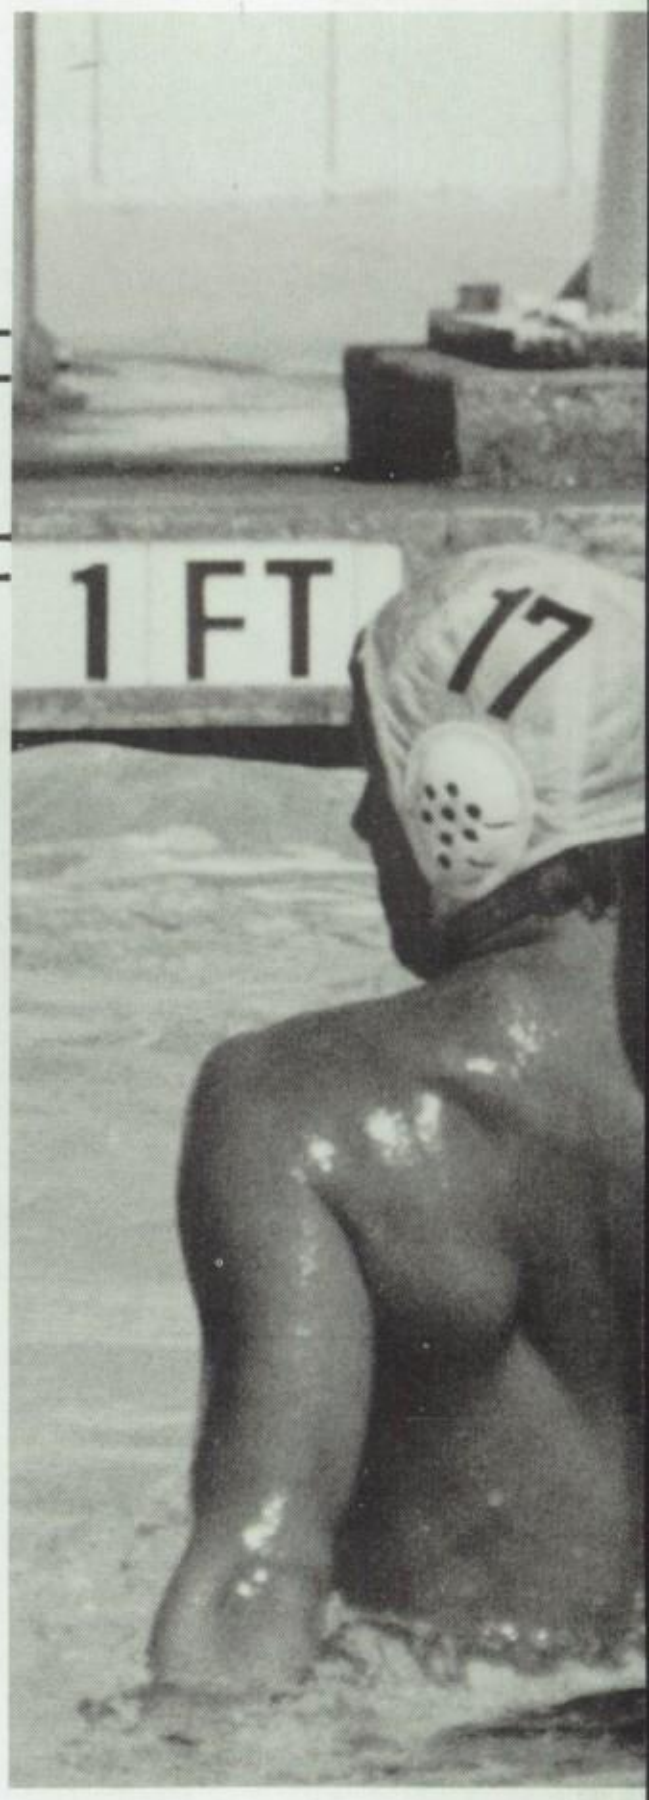
The hard work started early for the waterpolo teams. Daily practices during the summer helped to strengthen the players and ready them for the season.

The Varsity team concluded their season with a 3-2 record. Once again the Apaches upheld their reputation as hard workers who wouldn't give up. Senior Mike Rinn stated, "We always did the best that we could do and gave all the teams a tough fight." Most Valuable Player awards were given to Stuart Goggins and Don McKinley.

The Junior Varsity and Sophomore teams ended the season with a 2-2 record. The teams were led by Kent Besocke and Donald Kohlburg, who received Most Valuable Player awards. They had tough competition from the other teams in the league, but were able to hold their own and finish the season in a good position.

Overall, the waterpolo teams, under the direction of Coach Petterson and Coach Witt, proved that their hard work payed off.

Sophomore Paul Totten demonstrates his athletic ability when he attempts to defend Arcadia's goal. His effort helped the Apache team win.



Strength and skill are demonstrated by, number 17, Rich Lovrensky as he passes to a teammate in the game against Pasadena.

Varsity player Don McKinley was awarded "Most Valuable Player" and here he demonstrates his talent as he executes a pass in the game against Glendale.

Despite a block attempt by a Pasadena player, Don Kohlburg prepares to score for Arcadia.

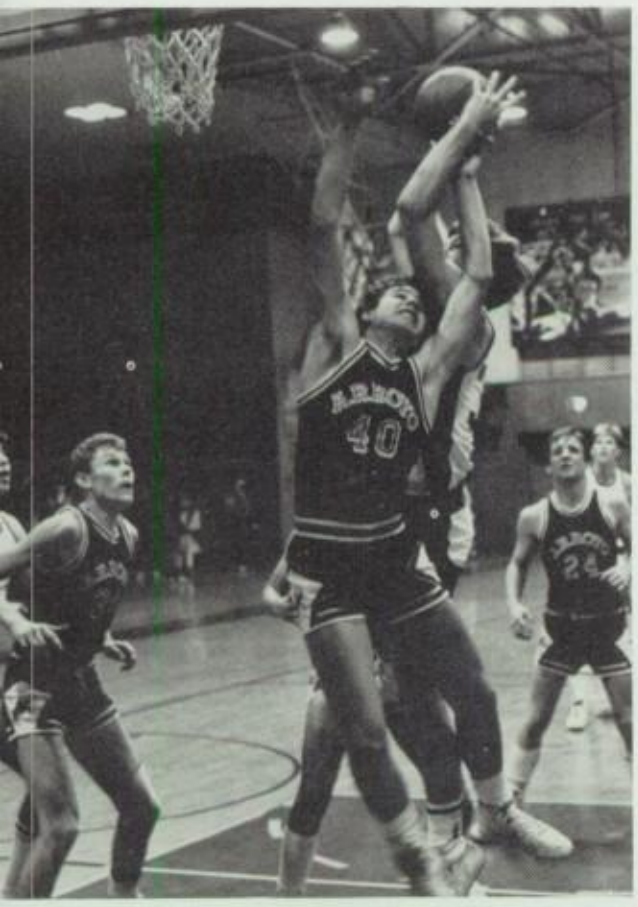
Dedication



After a successful summer league record of 10-3, the Varsity Basketball Team was definitely ready for the season.

The team had much depth this year with the many dedicated players who commited themselves to a successful season. The returning lettermen for the Apaches included Phil Gause, Jim Gray, Bob Nicholson, Fritz Widaman and Wayne Williams. These players, along with the newcomers to the Varsity team, all contributed their talents to the team effort. Senior David Litvak remarked, "We had the best team in a long time and were competitive with every team we played."

This year's team was extremely dedicated and played with aggression and skill that they could be proud of.

HOLDING TOGETHER

There are many important factors to a winning basketball team. The team must have talent, strength and most of all, the ability to hold together. Arcadia's JV and sophomore teams proved that they could hold together and emerge from the season as winners.

The JV team was coached by John Tipton this year. He had a lot of faith in his team and helped them through the season. The JV team consisted mainly of new players with a few returning sophomores. The team confronted many tough opponents and did their best at all times. Sophomore Craig Newman remarked, "JV was a lot of work this year but all of the players gained skill and experience."

The Sophomore team was coached by Coach John Nowa. They followed in the path of the JV players as a team that could hold together throughout the season.

Concentration is evident on the face of Craig Nixon as he contemplates his next move.

Hard Working Teams

The Girl's Varsity Basketball team faced hard work from the very beginning. With only one returning player on the Varsity team, Coach Robinson remarked, "Our main goal is just to make continued progress." The girls knew that they had to learn the fundamentals and they did. They were able to prove that their hard work was worth it by being a tough opponent for the other teams. Senior Cheri Bannister said, "Our team had a tough time this season because of injuries and loss of returning players, but throughout the season all of the girls really improved as a whole team. We had fun even though we weren't the number one team."

The Junior Varsity team also had a lot of work to do in order to be successful. The girls worked hard on the basics and teamwork and were proud of themselves. Coach Robinson remarked about both Varsity and Junior Varsity by saying, "The girls worked hard and dedicated themselves to the sport."

AGGRESSIVE

Rain or shine the Boys' soccer teams could be found on the field doing drills and playing scrimmages. They began practice after the first quarter in preparation for the season.

The Varsity team, once again had a great deal of talent and drive. Many of the players were returning Varsity of J.V. members such as, Tate Stringer, Brad Thompson, and Jim Zaslaw. Their experience and expertise were a great asset to the team.

As usual, many of the games were played under bad weather conditions, but that didn't hold the players back. Some of the most exciting games were played in the mud. Senior Erik Nielsen remarked, "It was a good season and the team worked well together."

The J.V. team was equally successful. With many new players, the team had a new start and the boys quickly proved they had the skills to play well.

WORKING HARD

Talent and experience were the key components of the 1985 Girl's soccer teams. Both Varsity and JV had an exciting year.

The Varsity team had many returning players who were important to the team. Senior Penny Parker stated, "Many players had played together on teams before and that helped us all to work well together." Their season was interferred with by excessive rain, but the girls were used to it and still played well. Coach Witofsky commented that he "was proud of the girls and their efforts." Some of the key players included, Leslie Wohlford, Caryn McNamee, Cari Sexton, Michelle Woodward, Kris Keeler, and Jodi Kaplan. The JV team showed a lot of potential. They had many new players who were skillfull and agressive as sophomores. They had a good season and played well in every game. Coach George Deyarmond worked well with the girls and helped them to play their best.

Deep concentration is evident on the face of senior Andi Gillette as she avoids the opposing defense.

Sophomore Tricia Reno played for JV this year and helped the team to be a tough competitor. Here she demonstrates her dribbling talent as she works around a Hoover forward.

As a senior on the Varsity team this year, Leslie Wohlford was a tremendous asset. She had a great deal of talent and experience and played well for Arcadia.

UNIQUE TEAMS

Long practices and lots of sweat were two ingredients that went into the unique Boy's Tennis teams. Both the Varsity and Junior Varsity teams excelled, each having an abundance of team spirit and determination which made their seasons successful.

Describing an average tennis match, Coach Sonnhalter said the team showed "a lot of skill and concentration. Each member had a unique quality which contributed to the success of the team." Their tennis ability improved with each game, and, with a little help from the experience of returning players. All together, Coach Sonnhalter felt that "both teams played with dedication, discipline, skill, and experience."

The friendliness between the team members was another important factor for the over all success of the season. With their great sportsmanship and effort, this year's Boy's Tennis teams become two of the best ever. Senior Ed Kriesberg commented that "all of us were friends which made us relaxed during practices and made competition a lot more fun."

PATIENCE

Golf is a sport that requires a great deal of patience and a lot of skill. The Apache Golf team was not a widely publicized team, but they did have a good season.

Most of the members played golf on their own time and joined the team to get the challenge of competing with a variety of golfers at a comparable level. Senior Bob Nicholson remarked, "We had a good time and it gave us a chance to compete against a lot of other golfers our age." Many of the games were held at the Santa Anita Golf Course at County Park, which was an advantage to the team because they were also able to practice there.

The Golf team members worked hard this year and maintained patience in order to achieve success. It was a strong season and a learning year for many of the players.

As a senior, Mark Sesenbach was a major asset to the Golf team. Here he prepares to take a shot.

Golf is a sport of great concentration, and Bob Nicholson shows this as he prepares to drive the ball.

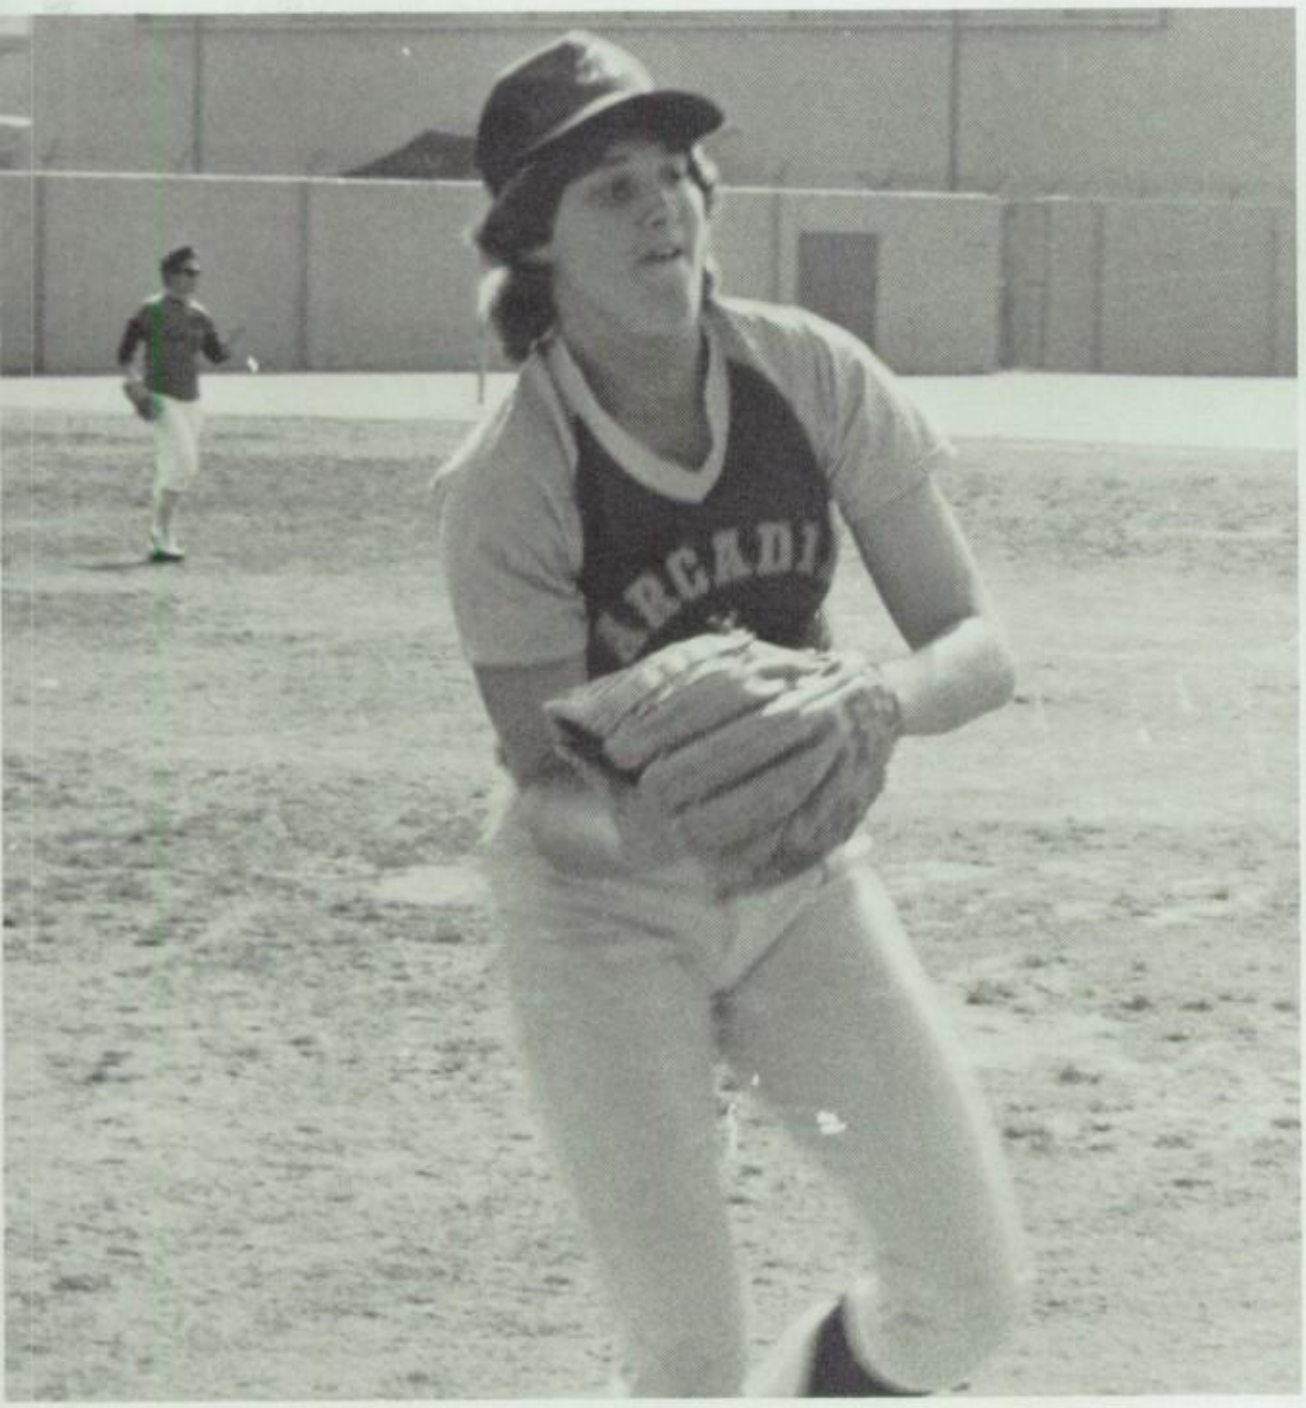
POWER

The 1985 Girl's Softball Team had an excellent season this year. Both the Varsity and JV teams had excellent coaches, Coach Gene Goins and Coach John Nowa.

Varsity was blessed with the talents of many power players. These girls were experienced softball players who knew the game well. Returning this year were Missy Coombes, Kris Keeler, and Laurel Wallace. Hard practices prepared them for their touch season and they had fun at the same time. Junior Kelly Macardican commented, "We all had a good time and played some good softball."

The girls on JV had a good year too. Many of the sophomores had a lot of experience and imporved throughout the year. The other JV teams in the league were very challenging opponents and inspired the Apaches to work hard.

Overall, both of the teams demonstrated their softall power and upheld the Apache tradition of strong competitors.



A strong asset to the Varsity team, Junior Missy Coombes attempts to throw out an opponent.

Concentration is evident on the face of senior Penny Parker as she fields the ball in a game against Pasadena.

DETERMINATION

Determination was a vital component in the success of the Boy's Swimming team. The boys trained hard for their meets and were determined to show their opponents a strong, hardworking team.

The Varsity team consisted of many boys who were returning for their second or third year on Arcadia's team. These swimmers led the other team members to a successful season. Senior Mike Rinn remembered, "We all worked hard to become a strong team and helped each other to do the best we could." Key swimmers for the Varsity team included, Mike Rinn, Stuart Goggins, Dieter Gottling, and Brad Buchholz.

The JV Boy's swimmers followed in the strokes of the Varsity swimmers. They worked out hard to become the best swimmers possible and provided tough competition for the other teams in the league.

Excellent coaching by Coach Ray Petterson was another key to the success of both teams, as he was very experienced and worked well with the swimmers. Overall it was a good season for Boy's swimming and a learning one as well.

Senior Dieter Gottling attempts to gain a good lead over his opponents in the meet against Muir.

Varsity swimmer Chris Queen prepares himself mentally for his next race.

As a strong member of the team, Dan Edens holds the lead over Crescenta Valley opponents.

UNITY

Unity proved to be a key contributer to the success of the Girl's Swim team. The girls pulled together and unified to have a good season.

The Varsity team had a great deal of experience which helped them to excell in their specific areas. Returning players for Varsity included, Laurie Whipple, Wendy Bullock, and Janine Kauffman. These girls were an important part of the team because of their experience and expertice. Senior Laurie Whipple stated, "Experience helped our team a lot this year." Although the girls faced strong teams from the different schools in their league, they proved they had talent and determination.

The JV team also used unity as the key to success. All of the girls supported each other and worked well as a team. JV member Gail Johansen said she "had fun this year and improved her skills as well." The team prepared well for their meets and it showed in their strong performances.

In an attempt to hold the Apache lead, Brenda Bucholz shows her skills as she dives passed her teammate.

Strength and skill are evident in swimmer Pam Hernandez, as she prepares to dive in the meet against Pasadena.

PROVING THEIR ABILITY

The 1985 Boy's Volleyball Team was composed of hard working, determined, and talented players. The team used these qualities in order to prove their ability and make the Apaches proud.

The Varsity team had returning players Mike Pearson and Kevin Tierney who were major assets to the team.

The newcomers to Varsity who played JV last year included Paul Amato, Chris Ballmer, Paul Bridgeman, Brad Silcox, and Tom Sweeney. These players improved a great deal and contributed greatly to the team's success. Coach Freberg remarked that the team had "many new and inexperienced players, but they all worked very hard and improved their skills." The newcomers to Arcadia volleyball were Perry Carter, Brian Daly, Tom Gaines, Mike Kristensen, Mike Peinado, Eric Seastedt, and Randy Wilson.

The Boy's Junior Varsity team had a good year as well. These boys proved their talent on the court in every game. As well as improving their skills, the players worked well as a team and developed good team qualities.

Senior Brad Silcox practices his set before th Glendale game.

STRIVING FOR THE TOP

Many talented athletes turned out to train for the Boy's Track team. These boys worked hard from day one, and finished the season with feelings of pride and accomplishment.

Returning track members included Rick Darwin, Jim Porter, Phil Collins, Ron Matty, Brad Thompson, and Dan Tunnicliff. These athletes contributed their experience and talents and helped the newcomers excel. Coach Speck commented that they "had strong athletes this year and everyone worked very hard." The Apaches faced many tough opponents throughout the season, providing a challenge to improve.

The 1985 Boy's Track team did well this year and many athletes improved their skills. The team strived for the top throughout the year and this attitude helped each member to do his best.

DOING THEIR BEST

The Girl's Track team started their season on the right foot as they trained hard in practice. Many hours after school were spent training in each athlete's event.

The returning members to the girl's team were Carole Cordero, Jody Hall, Sherisse Tuck, Cindy Stephens, and Kristina White. There were many talented sophomores who joined the team this year. Mrs. Guy coached the girls this year and helped them a great deal. She said, "We had a lot of hard working girls who were fun to work with." The team had a good time even though they worked very hard. All throughout the season the Girl's Track team did their best and were successful as well.

Cindy Stephens practices hard to improve her high jump skills and prepare for the day's meet against Hoover.

As she prepares to make her first jump, Christine Woodsmall shows concentration.

AMBITIOUS

In order to have a good, strong team, both talent and determination are necessary. These important components of a good team were evident in Arcadia's Varsity Baseball team. The Varsity team played extremely well and had a good time as well.

The many talented returning players were a very important part of the successful season. Mike Meerkreebs, Bruce Bowman, and Tim Lindsay were some of the key players. Coach John Meiers commented, "The team was strong and ambitious and played well throughout the season." Arcadia has always upheld the tradition of fielding a strong team and this year was no exception. Only the best baseball players made the Varsity team, and there was a lot of competition from many strong players. Todd Morgon, Troy Martin, Bobby Williams, and Steve Gewecke were four representatives of Arcadia talent.

The boys worked hard in order to do their very best and it paid off. The team had a successful season that they could be proud of.

MOVING UP

"It was a good year and we all gained a lot of experience," JV player, Steve Mazone, remarked about the season. The JV Boy's Baseball team started the season with lots of new talent. Many of these boys were sophomores. All the boys came out in the second semester ready to play good baseball and build a strong Junior Varsity team.

Key players included Doug Cline, Jim Ballard and Mike Thurman. Many of these boys had been playing baseball since they were in grammar school and had a lot of experience. Playing ball in high school was much more competitive, for only a few were chosen from the many good players. Steve Mazone, Harold Braunstien, Nick Ducich, and Eric Hallworth were also strong assets to the team.

The Sophomore team was also successful with the help of Tom Greep, Chris McCarn, and Dan Larson. These boys played well during the season and helped to lead the team to victory. Sean Evans and Steve Cashing were also key players. Sophomore Tom Greep summed up the season when he said, "It was a good experience playing on the Sophomore team and we had a good year."

SPORTS AND EMOTIONS

Emotions are an important part of sports. Whether it is pride in winning or pain from defeat, sports bring out emotions in everyone.

Emotions can be seen and heard from the players, the coaches, and the fans. Every athlete knows the thrill of accomplishment and can feel self-satisfaction after performing well. As coaches anxiously pace the sidelines, some have confidence in their team and their coaching, while others try to remain calm through the hard times. Probably the strongest display of emotions in sports is from the fans. When they cheer and support their teams, the athletes know the fans are watching their every move.

Many times the emotions in sports are those of anger, disgust, or disappointment. A bad call by the referee or an uncalled foul by another player can cause these emotions to occur. But, most people involved in sports realize that everyone makes mistakes sometimes, even themselves.

Overall, emotions play an important role in sports by affecting the players and their game. All players have memories, both good and bad, of their experiences in sports.

EVERYONE PLAYS

The 1980's were a time of health and fitness awareness. Everywhere you looked people were involved in some kind of sport. People of all ages could and did get involved in everything from aerobics to skiing.

There were many students at the high school who were involved in sports outside of school. Many belonged to gyms where they lifted weights, worked out on machines, or participated in aerobic classes. Others spent their spare time jogging or training on their bikes.

During the summer, surfing and waterskiing were also popular sports. Winter was a time for weekend skiing trips and hockey. Whatever sport you played, you knew the feelings of excitement and satisfaction that sports provided. Most everyone was involved in some kind of sport and had a good time, while keeping active too.

Seniors Mike Perone and Eric Perez like to spend their spare time on their bikes.

Greg Matheny spends a lot of time at the beach surfing and enjoying the surroundings.

The Staff under Scrutiny

1984-85 Arcadian members were responsible for putting together an annual which summarized a year in the lives of over 2,200 high school students. Being on the staff was a tremendous responsibility but also a great deal of fun. Staff members learned to take orders from other students and also to work well with each other.

H-1 was always busy as staff members wrote copies and captions, selected photographs, designed layouts, and, most importantly, rushed to make deadlines. The 40-plus Arcadians became close because they experienced many traumas and triumphs together. In the end, however, the editors and staff members were happy with the 34th volume of the Arcadian, which captured the 1984-85 school year.

Mr. Dodd, the Arcadian advisor, was always there to assist anyone who needed help or to just lend an idea. He made sure the book would be outstanding with his helpful suggestions and past experience. The staff truly enjoyed working with him. "This yearbook staff is the most conscientious, the most hard-working we've ever had," he commented.

Many new friends were made during fourth period as the closeness of the atmosphere brought everyone together. New members Suzy Marrone commented, "I really enjoyed fourth period. I met two of my best friends in yearbook."

The four major editors dealt with different aspects of the book. Managing Editor, Robin Du Fosee, made sure everything ran smoothly. She went over proofs and handled plant communications. Lauren Bolley, Photo and Caption Editor, organized and edited all pictures and captions. "Being Photo Editor has given me a special insight into what goes on within the yearbook.", she remarked. Linday Exton, Layout and Design Editor, created the graphics and the total design of the yearbook. Copy Editor, Lynne Brodhead, edited and revised all copy. Finally, Mr. Dodd was always there to supervise the production of the book and help to make it the best ever.

Organizations Editor, Jessi Hsieh, best summed up the year by saying, "I think it's a lot of work, but it pays off. You work hard and you get good results. It's fun, too."

Beth Du Fosee and Jessi Hsieh go over past yearbooks for ideas. The staff often referred to old books and books from other high schools to combine different ideas into the best decision.

The bulletin board in the yearbook room displays the deadlines for the various editors. To all the staff members, this bulletin helped put all the work in order.

A.P.W. RECIPE

Recipe

A recipe for an outstanding Apache Pow Wow: In a large room combine eleven freshly picked Arcadia High School students with special talents in journalism. Judi Ursettie said-"I'm planning to go into journalism and I know some of the other members are too.") Mix in 3 to 4 feature stories, 7 to 8 sports articles, 3 to 4 opinion columns, and 1 editorial. Add a dash of creativity, a pinch of imagination, and a liberal amount of hard work, Sprinkle in supervision from Mr. O'Brien and editor Heidi Wilson. These last two ingredients are essential to the success of the entire recipe. Blend for 2 weeks and pour into the latest edition of Apache Pow Wow. Makes 17 excellent editions in the course of the year.

istening to instructions is the first step in startng a new addition of the Pow Wow. Here edirs Jodi Friedman and Judy Ursettie take menl notes of their new directions.

Heidi Wilson looks over notes for the upcoming newspaper. As a editor-in-chief, much of the responsibility for the paper fell on her shoulders.

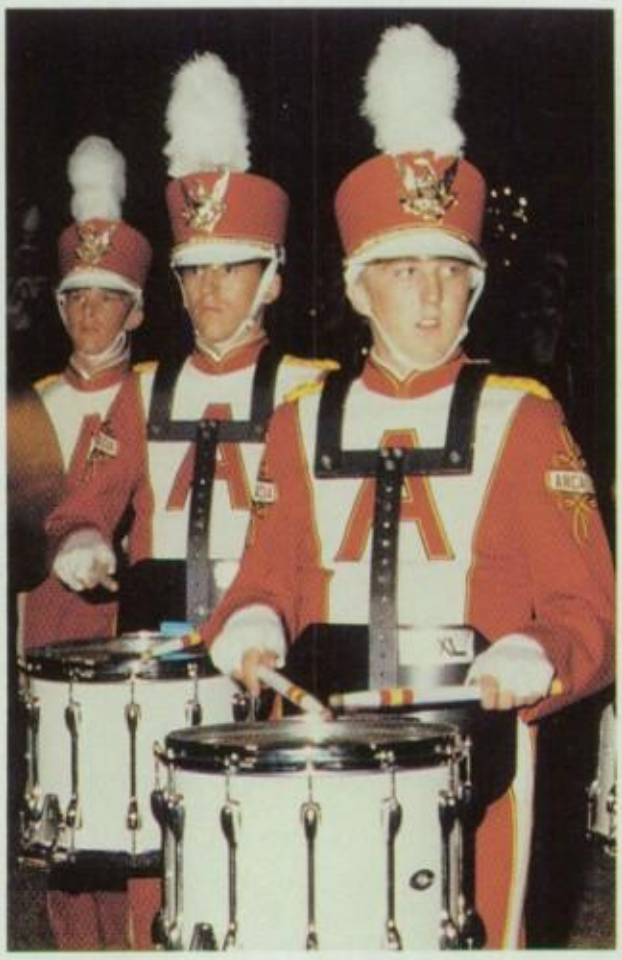
Band members concentrate on performing at a football game. The long hours of practicing and hard work always pay off at this moment.



Pride In Precision

The crack of the gun signified the end of the second quarter and announced the beginning of the half-time field show. A hush came over the crowd as the Apache Marching Band began to march out on to the field in perfect unison. All eyes were captured by this awesome spectacle of dedicated young people who, under the direction of Mr. Tom Landes, executed their field patterns with flawless precision, while demonstrating their excellent musicianship. "It has been my good fortune to be able to work with such fine students, and I consider it a privelege," stated, band director, Mr. Landes.

In order to put on such dazzling performances, the band, Drill Team, Princesses and Tall Flag members had to devote themselves to many long hours of practice, during and after school. They had to rehearse and polish all of their routines in order to accurately express, to their audiences, the great pride they have in their band and their school. The band displayed this pride at various competitions throughout California. This year the Marching Band performed at the Tournament of Roses Parade, the Los Angeles Rams game and the Azusa Field Tournament, as well as, sponsored the annual Arcadia Band Review. The exhilarating feeling of participating in such events was summed up by, band member, Patty Wong when she said, "The hype-feeling you get when you're performing really makes it worth all the work and sweat."

Dedication To Service

What made some of Arcadia High School's young men and women want to become Senior Men and Kiowas? Was it just the clothes that made the man or woman, or was it more? It was much more according to Kiowa, Natalie Awasian, who said that she wanted to be a Kiowa because she felt "it was an honor, an excellent way to meet people and an opportunity to help the school and community." She thought the best part of being a Kiowa was "getting acquainted with new people everyday." Phillip Kim wanted to be a Senior Man for different reasons. "I liked the exclusiveness of it," he said, "I wanted to be more involved and care more about school spirit. I felt prouder of Arcadia High, and I established a real loyalty to the school."

people attained a great deal of responsibility. They had mandatory meetings at 7:30 on Wednesday mornings. The Kiowas led by Mrs. McVay, and the Senior Men led by Mr. Allee discussed the year's events at their weekly meetings. "We preformed services such as selling programs at football games and acting as hosts at Back to School and College nights." stated Kiowa Rita Agarwal. Senior Man, Chris Konzelman added, "We sponsored activities like the 'Twist and Shout Dance' in November. It was one of our biggest fundraisers. The money raised was used to provide a Senior Man with a $100 scholarship and to donate a charity grant to the City of Hope Hospital."

The Kiowas and Senior Men all had a definite obligation to service the school. Along with all their responsibilities, they did, however, find time to relax and have fun. "Every Kiowa had a 'secret sister' who exchanges gifts with her. It makes for a real family relationship." said Kiowa Julie Blum. Chris Konzelman said that he was looking forward to the Senior Men's parties. "We do a lot for the school so this is our chance to get crazy!" he said.

As Director Mr. Davies waved his baton, he started off the orchestra's first performance at Foothills Jr. High. They played at many events such as the Holiday Pops, and Spring Concert. They also helped enrich the holiday spirit by performing at the Christmas Assembly. Besides performing in concerts, the orchestra's biggest event of the year was the Mt. Miguel Festival. Here they competed against various other groups for first place trophy.

"I like being active and Orchestra is one way for me to get involved. It is also a great way to meet new friends and keep in touch with old friends, too." commented David Lin. Member founded many new friendships and also learned to work well together throughout the year. "Orchestra isn't just another class. It's more like a club in which almost everyone knows each other by name. In a sense we are like one big family." stated Tony Chang.

Spirit Makers

"Even though I gave up a lot of my summer for cheering, it was one of the best summers I ever had." said Karleen Lokker.

The pep squad's year began with tryouts which were held on February 23rd during the 1984 school year. Over 100 girls tried out, and, in the end, 34 members were chosen. These girls made up four groups: Varsity Cheer, J. V: Cheer, Song Girls, and Short Flags. Also included were Apache Joe and the Pep Commisioner.

During the summer the pep squad practiced two or three times a week. They also attended a cheerleading camp in Lake Arrowhead for four days. "Camp gave us a chance to learn new cheers and also make lots of friends." said Adrianne Call.

The main activities the pep squad was responsible for were pep rallies and assemblies. They cheered, not only at football games, but at all sporting events; raising the spirit of A. H. S. with their enthusiasm. During the pep rallies, the pep squad gave all they had to jazz up the student body with chants, cheers, dances, and music by the pep band. They also postered the football players houses, made cookies for different teams, and held banquets for certain sports.

Aside from being a part of the pep squad, Apache Joe, Chris Balmer, and Pep Commisioner, Mila Samarzich, had special jobs. Apache Joe opened each football game by running the length of the field and making predictions of the scores. Mila Samarzich was involved in the business end of pep squad. Besides cheering at games and pep rallies, Mila organized the banquets, ordered supplies, and relayed the pep squad's needs to the Executive Council.

Summing up her experience, Ani Hadjian said, "I had a very rewarding time cheering, because I had the chance to meet new people and get involved." Ronni Morales added, "It was a blast."

Musically Speaking

One facet of Arcadia High School's vocal department was A Capella. This choral group was comprised of 44 sophomores, juniors and seniors and directed by Mr. Roland Maxon. They performed in approximately 6 shows throughout the school year. One of the highlights of their season was their annual Holiday Concert at the San Gabriel Civic Auditorium. There they performed such songs as "Silver Bells" and "Winter Holiday."

When asked about A Capella, member Shawn Shelden commented, "It's fun. I like to sing and (Mr.) Maxon's cool!" He also stated, "The shows are pretty good." "It's fun. You meet a lot of people and you go places." said another member Joe Cronin. This group really enjoyed themselves because through their singing, they met other people with interests similar to their own.

Chanteurs Dan Breese and Linda Hall finish their routine at the Holiday Assembly. Many long hours of practice went into their performance.

New Spirit sings at the Holiday Assembly in the North Gym. Their Christmas spirit was obvious from the energy with which they sang.

Orchesis members Sharon Broeske and Karleen Lokker rehearse a number. The girls spent many mornings and afternoons practicing.

Orchesis members Ani Hadjian, Cheri Bannister, Hayden Bixby and Carolyn McCue show their enthusiasm during practice. This enthusiasm and long hard rehearsals are evident in all of their performances.

Strutting Their Stuff

"We had a lot of talented girls this year and our performances were a lot of fun!" commented Orchesis member Sue Gledhill. This dance group made up of 38 girls performed many times during the year. Their road shows consisted of performances at local elementary schools where they demonstrated their dancing abilities to children throughout the school districts. They also appeared at the Christmas and Homecoming assemblies. The highlight of their year was the May Show. This consisted of four straight nights of performing to enthusiastic audience.

Advisor Toni Swarens helped the girls improve their dancing and also their coordination. She also brought the group together and helped them to form lasting friendship. They practiced long, hard hours in the mornings and on weekends, but it was well worth it. Their hard work produced great results which were noticed by everyone.

One special event for Orchesis was the "guest" dance instructor who came to teach a morning class. Randy, a professional from Rowland Dupress Dance School, showed the girls many new moves and they had a lot of fun. The most challenging dance they learned was called the "flamethrower." Orchesis had a great time because they got to meet people, listen to music, and, most importantly, they got to dance.

Orchesis Members Kelly Barns, Cheri Bannister, Tammy Sivas and Laura Vanlandingham perform at the Holiday Assembly. The crowd was quite receptive to their dancing.

The Chanteurs entertain the crowd at the Miss Arcadia Pageant with a vibrant performance. The pageant was held at the Masonic Temple located in Arcadia.

Singing and dancing in perfect harmony, the chanteurs add a touch of grace and elegance to their performance. Many hours were spent perfecting their routine.

Staying in step is pertinent to the success of the Chanteurs performances. The many rehearsals paid off at the Homecoming Assembly.

Carin Parmenter and Sandy Hutson express their friendship. Working together in New Spirit has enhanced their bond even more.

The Year In Music

Arcadia High School's vocal department carried on it's superior tradition in music while also having a good time. Under the direction of Mr. Roland Maxon, New Spirit and the Chanteurs performed numerous times during the year.

New Spirit was a choral organization of 19 sophomore, junior and senior girls. They performed in 35 shows during the school year, some of which were competitions. By practicing during third period every day and on Monday afternoons, they were able to perfect their routines and practice their songs. When asked why she enjoyed New Spirit, member Lori Swartzentruber answered, "New Spirit, was really fun. We did a lot of shows, and I enjoyed going places and meeting new people."

Another facet of the vocal department was the Chanteurs. This song-and-dance group was comprised of 21 juniors and seniors. They performed in approximately 70 shows, including various competitions. Along with New Spirit, they performed in cities such as Santa Barbara and Pismo Beach for their spring tour. The highlight of their tour was San Francisco, where they sang in several locations, went sightseeing, and had a whole lot of fun. When asked why she joined Chanteurs, Dawn Shelden answered, "Because I love to sing!" She then remarked, "It's more like a show choir, we get to dance."

The Chanteurs and New Spirit kept up the tradition of great Apache music and spread school spirit in 1985. They enjoyed themselves, met people, and traveled to new places. Most importantly, they formed many rewarding friendships and created special memories that will last a lifetime.

NEW SCIENCE-ATIONS

The C. P. U. Club, Computer Programmer and User Club, was one of the two computer clubs on campus. Its purpose was to bring together users and owners of home computers to discuss and share knowledge. "We're here together to experience and learn about computers while having a lot of fun." said George Hsieh. The members participated in a candy sell-fundraiser in order to buy more software for the club. "Our goal is to encourage and broaden the use and application of home computers, and to help our members increase their knowledge." commented Andrew Huang, President of C. P. U.

The Computer Club, sponsered by Mr. Fountain, was another organization for those interested in computers. It appeared that the trend of computers was ever-increasing and more and more students were interested in learning about them. "The purpose of our club is to give our members an opportunity to learn to program on the Apple Computer." stated Mr. Fountain. The club was run on a self-teaching basis but occasionally, when a member got stuck on a problem, a fellow member or Mr. Fountain would help out.

Another new and exciting organization on campus was the Science Club. When asked who should join the club, Jolly Chen, the President of this club, replied, "The club is open to anyone who is interested in the fields of science such as chemistry, physics, and biology." The Science Club did several group experiments during the year and also attended various science exhibits and lectures. "We learned a lot of interesting things that amazed us and we also found new friends." commented John Chieu.

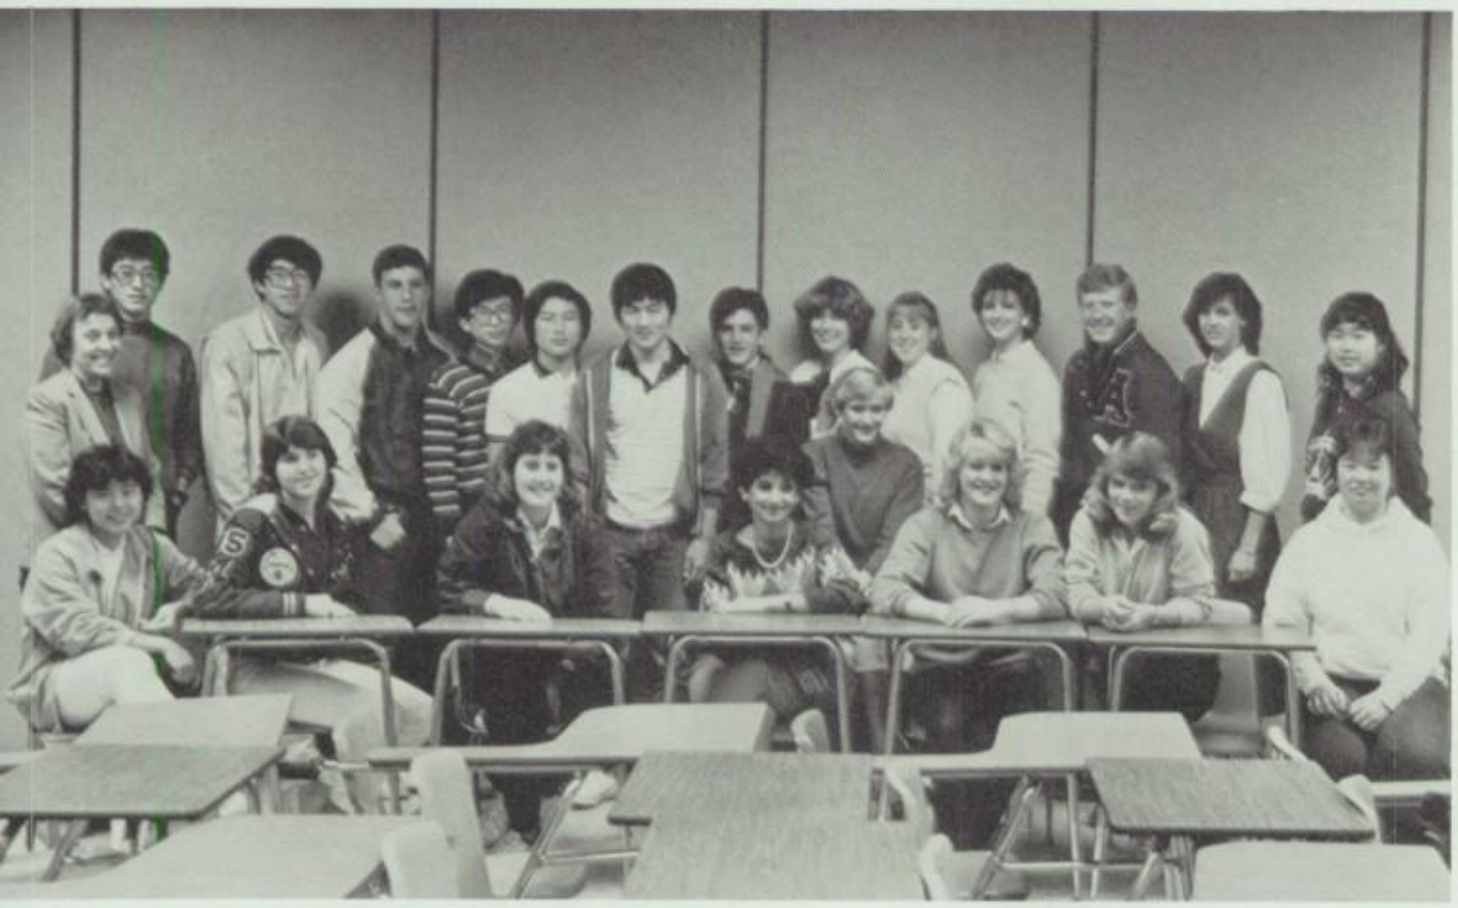
Putting The Best Foot Forward

All clubs on campus circulated around a core organization which fed them ideas, gave them insight and help to organize, and aided them in most of their procedures. This organization, known as I.C.C. (Inter Club Council), was the major support of the 42 clubs in existence at Arcadia High School.

One of the most important functions of the I.C.C., according to club sponsor, Mrs. Rasmussen, was that, "The IC.C., under state law, had required all clubs to submit a constitution which ensured that membership was open to all interested students." Achievement clubs differed, though, because they had special requirements for membership. All clubs, however, kept constitutions on file in the club room in case anything concerning club procedures needed to be discussed at the meetings.

Executive Council headed by Mr. Payne and Mrs. Rasmussen, functioned as the main branch of government at Arcadia High School. Its purpose was to manage student body funds and use them to direct and organize different event. They planned activities such as the Homecoming Weekend, the multimedia and musical assemblies, the Valentine's Dance, and the Prom. Lindy Exton, a member, said, "I have a lot of fun," Chris Konzelman, President, added, "Being in Executive Council is very exciting but it's also a lot of responsibility because we act as the voice of all the student."



The Executive Council brought Christmas joy to the elderly by caroling at Presbyterian Convelesant Home. This was one of the many meaningful events they did.

Everyone Is WELCOME

One of the most important functions of the Korean, Chinese, and International Clubs, according to International Club Vice-President, Lori Puglisi, was "to encourage unity between all students so that they could better co-operate for the school's benefit." Korean Club President Steve Rhee encouraged "fellowship and friendship" through discussion of Korean culture and watching slides of the beautiful country. The Chinese Club had many interesting events such as the Christmas Show and the annual dance. The purpose of these activities, according to Chinese Club President David Lin, was to bring everyone together as "a big family." Rebecca Larson, International Club President, said that she loved her job because she noticed how people in her club were learning to be sensitive to the customs and ideas of people from all over the world.

The German, French, and Spanish Clubs were also some of the very active clubs on campus. To raise money, the French Club sponsored a See's Sucker Sale and a Bake Sale. For community service they went Christmas caroling at local convalescent homes. The German Club had continued success with their Gummy Bear Sale. According to President Ann Tyree, the club used the profits to buy books, games and contribute to school events. The Spanish Club, a new club sponsored by Mrs. Primozich, sold delicious chocolate "Santa pops" at Christmas and used the money to hold informal parties and picnics.

The main theme of all these clubs, though, was to discourage segregation and to help all to discover and appreciate the world's different cultures.
